Q&A: Carter talks about the suburbs

President Jimmy Carter has focused on global problems and domestic emergencies during his first 10 weeks in office, but no forum has developed for the new administration to comment on problems facing suburban America.

The administration's attitude toward the suburbs and problems such as busing, airport noise, revenue sharing and mass transportation are of special interest to millions of persons who live on the fringes of the nation's urban areas.

In response to an offer made during the presidential campaign, The Herald posed a series of questions to the President in an effort to pinpoint his positions on these issues.

The Democratic party platform, which you and your staff played some role in developing, devoted little direct attention to the problems of the suburbs. What will be your plans to appeal to the nonurban or nonrural resident?

Citizens in the suburbs face many of the same problems that Americans in every environment have: energy shortages; high prices; lack of confidence in government; a decline in strength of the family unit; and, unemployment. This is to name only a few. The President, in submitting his proposed two-year economic stimulus package to Congress, feels that getting America's economy moving solidly again — with the participation of the people — is one major step to help those in our suburbs and everywhere. Second, by providing a model of good economy and efficiency in the operation of his own office, the President hopes to restore the faith of Americans in our government, thus boosting increased vitality in family life and bringing Americans behind a national energy policy that will require sacrifices.

Many suburbanites left the cities to avoid court-ordered government housing programs and court-ordered busing programs. You have said you favored a voluntary approach on the busing issue, similar to the Atlanta school situation, but given the real indication that many people truly fear desegregation and apparently want to avoid it, what is your position on these two topics? Does the government have a role, a social engineering type responsibility, to get all types of people together?

The U.S. Supreme Court has ruled on the busing issue; thereby, in effect making it the law of the land and no longer an issue to be decided upon by popular vote. The president favors a voluntary approach to the busing situation, such as the one he helped organize in Atlanta while serving as Governor of Georgia. President Carter recently said: "Court-ordered busing is a proper constitutional tool, but it should be used only as a last resort. There are other ways to achieve desegregation, and they should be used wherever possible. For example, the Justice Department will help by bringing biracial community groups together to sit down and try to work out a solution where necessary."

On a more local note, the people who live around O'Hare International Airport are constantly bothered by aircraft noise. What is your position on reducing aircraft noise? U.S. Rep. Abner J. Mikva, whose district includes some communities near O'Hare, has introduced legislation which would allow local residents to establish a board to prepare regulations aimed at reducing aircraft noise. The majority of the boards would come from towns that border airports which do not have a proprietary interest in the facility. The regulations could be overturned for safety or economic reasons only by either the FAA or CAB. Do you favor

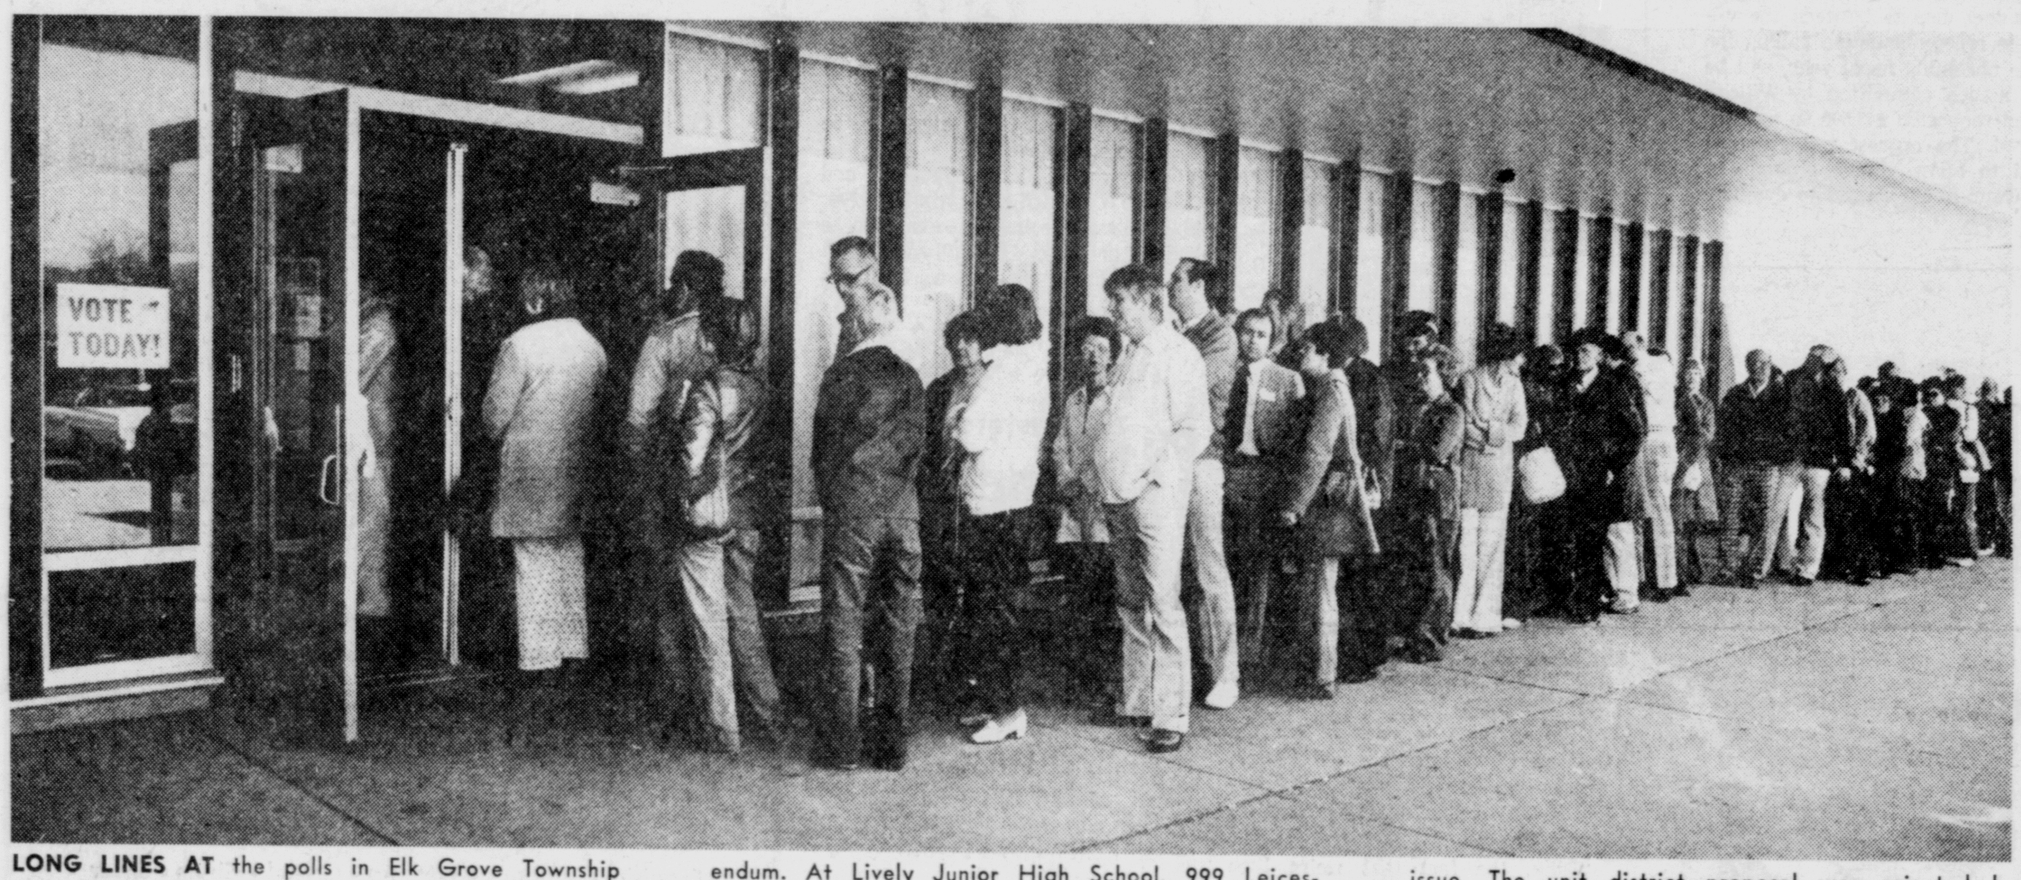
Unit plan defeated by 2-1 margin



LONG LINES AT the polls in Elk Grove Township Saturday forced voters to wait nearly an hour to cast their ballots on the unit school district referendum. At Lively Junior High School, 999 Leicester Rd., Elk Grove Village, more than 1,700 residents patiently waited to have their say on the issue. The unit district proposal was rejected by voters by a 2-to-1 margin with more than 9,000 votes cast.

by SHERYL JEDLINSKI

Voters, by a 2-1 margin, defeated the Elk Grove Township unit school district referendum Saturday, and officials from both factions in the seccessionist struggle say their jobs are to heal the divisions created during the weeks of bitter campaigning.

The referendum went down to defeat at every polling place. At the two precincts in Elk Grove Village, where residents were expected to favor the proposal because of possible financial benefits, the question was defeated by 34 and 98 votes.

Reacting to the overwhelming negative vote, Cook County Schools Supt. Richard Martwick said he believed people were against "cutting up the district."

"Why deter a good thing by trying to fragment it?" Martwick said.

LEAH CUMMINS, a member of a committee of Dist. 59 residents who filed the petition seeking the new unit district said, "Whatever we have now, we all have the responsibility to try to mend fences."

The unit district would have combined 21 Elk Grove Township Dist. 59 elementary and junior high schools, Elk Grove High School in Elk Grove Village and Forest View High School in Arlington Heights under one school board and administration.

"It seems clear the people said they want the status quo with respect to the high schools," Mrs. Cummins said. "This was the people's wish based on the information they received."

Unfortunately, she said, there wasn't a "rational climate" in which unit district supporters could get their story across.

''THE OPPOSITION discredited Dist. 59 irresponsibly, cruelly, recklessly and unconscionably and deprived the people of the right to make a decision on a rational basis," Mrs. Cummins said.

With their money and manpower, the unit district opposition instilled in people a lack of confidence in Dist. 59 and made them believe the unit district would be a Dist. 59 takeover, she said.

"It wouldn't have been this way," Mrs. Cummins said. "It would've been a great opportunity for us to deliver something better to our kids with our own resources, but it didn't work out."

Dist. 214 Supt. Edward Gilbert said he had been optimistic the referendum would fail, but had expected the

Grundberg, Kraybill win in Dist. 25

Ruth Grundberg and Marlene Kraybill emerged victorious Saturday from a field of five newcomers running for the Arlington Heights Dist. 25 Board of Education.

In Wheeling Township Dist. 21, two candidates supported by the teachers' union were elected while two incumbents and a newcomer won in Prospect Heights Dist. 23.

The High School Dist. 214 race was uncontested.

WINNING THREE-YEAR terms on the Dist. 25 board, Grundberg received 1,337 votes and Kraybill got 1,073 votes.

Other contestants were Saunders Reinhard, with 848 votes; William Bradley, 356 votes; and Donna Edelen, 173 votes.

Nearly 2,000 votes cast ballots in Dist. 25 Saturday, compared to 1,200 votes cast in the 1976 election.

School officials said they believe Dist. 25 had a high turnout because many residents thought they would be able to vote on the unit school district issue in Elk Grove Township. Only Elk Grove Township Dist. 59 residents were eligible to vote in that referendum.

Ms. Grundberg, 42, of 505 Mayfair Rd., Arlington Heights, said she was "overwhelmed" by the election results.

"It's something I've been wanting to do," she said. "I'm pleased I'll be able to serve on the board."

"I THINK THE present board has been doing a fine job. I want to go on and continue that," Ms. Grundberg said.

"The first matter of concern to the board now is the junior high closing," she said. "I'll be interested in getting community input into that decision on what junior high will be closed."

Ms. Kraybill, 42, of 1100 N. Chestnut, Arlington Heights, said she feels "absolutely great" after her vistory. "I'm really pleased so many people turned out," she said.

Ms. Kraybill credited her election triumph "to all the people who campaigned for me. It was the people who did it."

Ms. Grundberg and Reinhard were endorsed by the Dist. 25 General Caucus. Ms. Kraybill said, "I just want to work hard with the board as a total to see that we keep up the good quality of education in Dist. 25."

Incumbents Joan Klussmann and Richard Soby did not run for reelection Saturday.

TWO TEACHER-SUPPORTED candidates were victorious over two other contestants in a race for the Wheeling Township Dist. 21 Board of Education.

Xenophon Daniel Kafcas won 656 votes and Stuart Weinstein received 546 votes to defeat Herbert Stein, with 480 votes and Linda Kurtzman, with 282.

All of the candidates were making their first bids for three-year terms on board. Incumbents Jeremiah Crise and Winfield Boyer did not seek reelection in Saturday's election.

Kafcas, 1103 S. Miller Ln., Buffalo Grove, and Weinstein, 3311 Carriage Way Dr., Arlington Heights, were backed by the Dist. 21 teachers' union.

This is the second consecutive year teacher-endorsed candidates have been elected to the Dist. 21 board. In last year's race union-supported candidates Linda Sprechman and Elaine Bond ousted two incumbents.

KAFCAS, 44, who also was endorsed by the Dist. 21 General Caucus, said he was "thrilled and honored" by his election triumph.

"I feel grateful to the people who encouraged me to run and to the people who helped me," Kafcas said. He said the teachers' endorsement contributed to his victory "in terms of generating a certain amount of public attention to my qualifications" but "I would hate to single out any one endorsement as being unique."

As a board member Kafcas said, "One of the things I want to do is contribute to the kind of climate that is goal-oriented."

Weinstein, 35, said he will "always be grateful for the support I received from so many people." He said he considers "each vote a vote of confidence" and "I will be true to my campaign promise of trying to represent the will of the people."

WEINSTEIN SAID the teachers' support "was certainly a significant asset" to his victory. "They really were very excellent in getting out the

Taxpayers get record refunds; errors up too

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The IRS says Americans are getting record high income tax refunds this year — an average $448 so far — and more are checking off a buck or two for presidential campaign funds than did last year.

But taxpayers also are making a lot more mistakes in filling out their 1976 returns — especially the so-called short form, 1040A.

Of the 83 million returns expected to be filed by Saturday's deadline, nearly 47 million had been processed as of April 1, Internal Revenue Service spokesmen said.

Of the 47 million taxpayers who have been through the mill, 39.7 million got refunds. The average amount returned has been $447.58, compared with $417.26 at the same time last year.

AFTER ALL RETURNS were counted last year, the average refund was $426.41 — the highest ever up to that time.

IRS statistics also show that, as of April 1, 11.2 million returns authorized either $1 or $2 of their income tax to be used for the 1980 presidential campaign. The money authorized totaled $17.2 million.

The IRS released figures showing the number of mistakes made by taxpayers also has jumped dramatically.

The figures show a 13.4 per cent error rate on the 1040A "short form" as of March 19, and a 9.4 per cent rate on the longer form 1040.

A year ago, the combined error rate for both types was 8.8 per cent, and in 1975 it was 4.7 per cent.

Officials blame the 1976 Tax Reform Act, which forced taxpayers using the short form to compute their tax mathematically for the first time.

Pay increases won't top housing cost hike: study

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Homeowners and renters alike are in for a major disappointment if they expect their annual incomes to keep pace with the skyrocketing cost of housing, a government survey said Sunday.

The study, released jointly by the Census Bureau and the Dept. of Housing and Urban Development, showed that the median value of single-family homes jumped nearly 73 per cent between 1970 and late 1975.

At the beginning of the decade, the value was $17,100. As of October, 1975, the value for the home was $29,500.

DURING THE SAME period, the study said, median inclume for homeowners rose 40 per cent — from $9,700 to $13,600.

Housing costs have continued to climb rapidly since then. Government figures released Friday showed that the median sales price of new, single-family homes was $47,500.

For renters, the situation was much the same, the report said.

Median monthly rents, including utilities, increased from $108 to $156 during the 1970-75 period, a 44 per cent climb. At the same time, renters' median income increased 25 per cent, from $6,300 to $7,900.

THE REPORT SAID the value of single-family homes in 1975 was about twice the income of their owners, although the ratio varied considerably according to income level.

Owners with incomes of less than $5,000 annually lived in housing valued at an average of four times their income. In the upper income group, $25,000 or more, the value of homes was an average of less than 1.5 times income, the report said.

Harper faculty talks to continue

Negotiations for a 1977-78 contract between the Harper College faculty and board of trustees will continue despite a deadlock at Thursday night's bargaining deadline. Spokesmen for both sides said they are agreeable to an extension of the talks, but terms of the extension are undecided. Neither side would say when the talks might resume. Chicago attorney Ted Clar, chief negotiator for the board, said Board Pres. Shirley Munson had rejected faculty requests for federal mediation and an extension of the talks to May 13. Munson proposed that the two sides resume negotiations today or Tuesday afternoon or Wednesday morning. The faculty and board are far apart on their salary proposals with the board offering a 5.8 per cent wage hike and the faculty seeking 8.8 per cent.

Columbo arguments continue

Arguments over pre-trial motions in the murder trial of Patricia Columbo and Frank DeLuca will resume today in Cook County Circuit Court. Defense and prosecuting attorneys will present arguments on a motion to quash statements taken by police from Miss Columbo. The hearing is scheduled for 9 a.m. in the courtroom of Judge R. Eugene Pincham at the Cook County Criminal Courts Building, Chicago. Miss Columbo, 20, and DeLuca, 39, are charged in the May 4, 1976, slayings of Miss Columbo's parents, Frank and Mary Columbo, and her 13-year-old brother, Michael, at their home, 55 E. Brantwood Dr., Elk Grove Village. Also pending is a defense motion for separate trials for the defendants.

Omni-House funds hike pushed

A 14 per cent increase in funding for Omni-House: Youth Services Bureau will be recommended tonight by The Arlington Heights administration, ending a budget dispute between the village, and the counseling agency. The recommendation calling for the agency to receive $33,000 for the upcoming fiscal year, will be submitted to the village board's finance committee by Village Mgr. L. A. Hanson. Omni-House had requested $43,500 so another full-time staff person could be hired. The request was rejected when Omni-House officials refused to allow village officials to have the names and addresses of Omni-House clients to evaluate its counseling programs.

passage of such a law?

A complete answer to this inquiry, and comments on specific legislation, would be premature at this time, pending final release of the President's proposed environmental message and his national energy policy. The President believes solutions are needed to the problems of noise pollution and during the campaign was an advocate of protection "against the noise pollution with which our advanced technology challenges us." In a recent public response to a question similar to this, the President said: "I think that the noise standards in our country are going to be stricter in the future, and not more and more lenient and the same noise standards ought to apply to an airplane whether it is a Concorde or a Lockheed or an airplane of some other kind, or any sort of American commercial plane."

U.S. Rep. Philip M. Crane, a conservative Republican, has been fighting the U.S. Postal Service for some time. He currently has legislation pending to allow private corporations to take over the delivery of first class mail. Is this legislation in line with your general philosophy of reducing the governmebt bureaucracy? Would you favor passage of this legislation?

The President was critical of the U.S. Postal Service during the campaign. Again, comments on specific legislation would be premature, in view of the President's pending long-term governmental reorganization plan, which is on the drawing board. However, during the campaign, the President issued a four-page position paper which advocated making the Postal Service "publicly accountable." His proposals included recommending legislation to make the postmaster general appointee of the President, confirmed by the Senate and a requirement that the Postal Service develop a program of exeuctive development. The President also urged the Postal Service to form a competent research and development staff to improve management.

Congress recently has renewed the revenue-sharing program after a serious attempt to make major revision failed. The program will come up for renewal while you are in office. Do you favor keeping the program as it is, shifting more aid to big cities at the expense of the suburbs? Or making radical changes such as eliminating the program altogether in exchange for a more extensive categorical grants program, for instance?

The President in his campaign called for some change in the basic structure of dispersing revenue funds. The President favors an approach to give funds directly to local cities and communities. He expressed his support for the countercyclical revenue-sharing concept Jan. 31 when, in submitting his proposed economic stimulus package to Congress, he urged a change in the formula to make the program more sensitive to the unemployment rate and provide for increases to areas where unemployment rates are high.

The government is becoming more involved in the subsidy of mass transportation operations. In the Chicago area, millions of dollars are being used to keep bus and train operations going. At the same time, there does not appear to be any major shift in ridership. In your opinion, how far or how much money must the government pour into failing transportation operations before a major change is made in the way in which government addresses the mass transportation situation?

The President does not desire to put taxpayers funds into programs that fail. He believes the key is to make them work. It is premature to discuss budget figures on how much should be allocated for transportation operations as this will be under review for some time. The President said in the campaign that arresting the deterioration of the nation's highway, rail, and aviation system and "completing needed work on new urban transit systems must become the nation's first transportation priority." The President has said he favors an increase in funds from the Highway Trust Fund for public mass transportation.

Black politician will get no apology from Billy

OAKLAND, Calif. (UPI) — A black politician said Sunday he resents a racial remark made to him by Billy Carter, but the President's brother refused to apologize.

"Certainly I resent it," Carter Gilmore, 51, long active in the NAACP, said of the remark that was made at a cocktail party here.

"I ain't apologizing because I got nothing to apologize for," said Carter, the Georgia gas station operator who has gained fame for his outspoken remarks and beer drinking. He said he was only "kidding" and that Gilmore knew it.

THE REMARK WAS made at a party for 400 Oakland A's season ticket holders the night before Carter threw out the first ball for the baseball team's season opener Saturday with Minnesota.

Gilmore, who is running for the Oakland City Council, asked Carter, who had mounted the stage at the Hilton Hotel International Ballroom to field questions:

"Billy, the fact that we're both named Carter, can you explain that we're not related to each other?"

"Well," replied Carter, "I hate to say it, but we all left a nigger in the woodpile someplace."

Carter and the crowd laughed, and Gilmore chuckled and grinned. But later Gilmore, a businessman, said he had not understood the full remark.

"All I heard was the word 'Woodpile,' " he said.

Thoughts on a Mattress Poem: Back-ache Blues*

Once upon a midnight sleeping
Suddenly I woke up weeping.
Something happened in my mattress
To disturb my night's repose.
While I rested nearly napping,
Suddenly there came a snapping
As the springs unleashed their zapping
Every time I tried to doze.

Why is this mattress getting bumpy?
Why the surface worn and lumpy?
Could it be because I've used it
Every night for twenty years?
Maybe I should buy a new one
To replace this ancient ruin.
Could the Schaumburg Mattress factory
Drive away my back-ache tears?

Morning found me weak and worried.
To the Factory I hurried.
Bought a mattress and a box spring
To relieve my back-ache blues.
Now I sleep with blissful ease.
No more back-ache memories.
Now I know why Schaumburg Mattress
Well deserves its rave reviews.

Carter orders Soviet trawler seized

CALHOUN, Ga. (UPI) — President Carter Sunday said he had informed the Soviet embassy the United States no longer will continue to release Russian trawlers violating fishing rules within the new U.S. 200-mile limit.

Carter said he ordered the seizure of a Soviet trawler off New England at 9:59 p.m. Saturday, because "we had to draw the line somewhere" on violations of the new fishing limits.

The Coast Guard seized the 275-foot Soviet fishing trawler Taras Shevchenko with a crew of 93 late Saturday for allegedly taking more than a ton of fish above its authorization.

CARTER WAS asked if he had ordered the seizure. "Yes," he replied.

"We had to draw the line somewhere," Carter told reporters when he was interviewed briefly after attending Easter services at the First Baptist Church here.

"We have released several of them," he said. "We informed the Soviet embassy that we could no longer continue to release them — that we just had to enforce the law."

The trawler is scheduled to arrive today in Boston to be placed under the custody of the U.S. attorney.

The seizure was the first under the new 200-limit Fishery Management and Conservation Act of1976, which took effect March 1. The law bans foreign vessels from fishing for certain species unless they have permits.

THE 275-FOOT Russian stern trawler Taras Shevchenko was said to have caught more than 1.5 metric tons (about 3,300 pounds) of river herring in excess of its authorization and was seized by the Coast Guard at 11:22 p.m. Saturday about 240 miles southeast of Boston and 75 miles inside the 200 mile boundary, a spokesman said.

The seizure followed recent criticism from many northeast fishermen and politicans who said the law would be useless unless harsh measures were taken against foreign violators.

By mid-day Sunday, the 18-year-old trawler was about 100 miles southeast of Cape Cod and was being escorted to the Coast Guard support center at Boston Harbor.

"ONCE IT TIES up, the ship and cargo go under the custody of the U.S. attorney's office, and immigration and customs officials will become involved," Coast Guard spokesman John Bablitch said.

"The Coast Guard will provide surveillance of the ship as long as the case is under litigation," he said. Bablitch said the crew members would be confined to the ship.

He said there have been a number of seizures in the past four years, and that legal action in some cases has stretched to two or three months.

The U.S. attorney's office was not available for comment.

The trawler, based at the Russian port of Kaliningrad, was seized several hours after the vessel was boarded by Coast Guard officials and officials from the National Marine Fisheries Service.

PASTOR HAROLD I. Albert of the First Baptist Church of Arlington Heights, set fire to the mortgage of his congregation's church during Easter services. The church was damaged March 16 after a boiler exploded. The mortgage was paid last week.

No gains seen for U.S., Soviet May arms talk

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A number of arms control experts predict U.S. and Soviet negotiators won't make much progress when they resume strategic arms talks in May, despite the conciliatory words now flowing between Washington and Moscow.

The consensus among these specialists is that the tough new U.S. bargaining stance is not likely to change significantly by then, and the Soviets will not back down from their rejection of it.

Furthermore, there still is a dispute over just what was agreed to in the 1974 accord that was supposed to lay groundwork for a second-stage SALT pact.

So the prediction is that the two sides merely will clarify their positions at the Geneva talks in May and keep on negotiating, possibly with tacit agreement to extend the original "interim" SALT pact, which expires in October.

CARTER OFFERED a cheerier assessment Friday.

He said Soviet leader Leonid Brezhnev has been sending "encouraging" messages even as Russia's press has been blasting the U.S. proposals. And he offered Brezhnev some encouragement:

"We will be reassessing some of the objections the Soviets have raised to see if there is some alternative that would be fair to both sides," Carter said. "If there is any inequity there, we would be very eager to change it."

The catch? "My own opinion so far," he said, "is that our proposal was fair and equitable."

IN MOSCOW, the Soviets don't think so. They rejected the more limited of Carter's two proposals because it did not match the preliminary U.S.-Soviet agreement at Vladivostok in 1974. They turned down his second proposal, for deep reductions in missile and bomber stockpiles, as dangerously biased in America's favor.

Confusion over what was agreed to at Vladivostok stems from an ambiguous U.S.-Soviet memorandum initialed shortly after the 1974 summit.

It is still secret, but enough is known to pinpoint the source of controversy: a section that discusses limitations on "air-launched missiles." It says such missiles may be deployed on heavy bombers, but must be counted within arsenal limits set at Vladivostok — 2,400 missiles and heavy bombers for each side.

What is an "air launched missile?"

The Soviets say it is a cruise missile — a pilotless, nuclear-armed aircraft the United States is well advanced in developing. The U.S. side says an "air-launched missile" is a ballistic missile.

IN MOSCOW, the United States offered to ratify the Vladivostok pact if the Russians would set aside the dispute over cruise missiles and Soviet "Backfire" bombers. The Soviets refused to defer the issue.

They also rejected Carter's more "comprehensive" proposal which limits each side to 1,800-2,000 bombers and missiles, but offers advantages to both.

The Russians would get superior missile "throw weight" that could lead to more warheads, unlimited use of medium bombers, some leeway to use the "Backfire" bomber, no limit on heavy air defenses and permission to develop cruise missiles.

The United States could retain the 1,550-mile-range cruise, stop development of a costly MX mobile missile in return for a ban on Soviet mobile missiles, and benefit from a freeze on Soviet strategic missile modernization and reduction of Soviet heavy missile arsenals.

Easter rites observed worldwide

Worshipers throughout the nation and the world gathered in churches, caves and on mountain tops to observe Easter services Sunday.

In Calhoun, Ga., President Carter gathered his family at 6 a.m. for a sunrise Easter service in celebration of Christ's Resurrection.

Carter and his family worshiped on a bright, cloudless day on the back porch of his eldest son's home in Calhoun, where they have spent the weekend.

Rosalynn Carter prayed and daughter Amy read the story of the Empty Tomb in Matthew 28.

"All of us commented on what Christ's death and resurrection meant to us," Carter said, adding it was one of the best sunrise services he had ever attended.

THEN, WEARING a sprig of lilies of the valley in his lapel and carrying grandson Jason, Carter led his family into the jammed First Baptist Church.

In the Northeast, more than 3,000 persons braved below freezing temperatures to attend outdoor services at the Cathedral of the Pines in Rindge, N.H. The services began in the dark — when it was only 20 degrees — and were timed so the benediction was given just as the sun rose over the Monadnock Mountains.

"It was a beautiful crystal clear morning and the sunrise was breathtaking," cathedral director William Keep said.

Another 3,000 persons attended services inside Meramec Caverns, Stanton, Mo., the largest attendance in the event's 11 year history. "That goes to show that religion is still going around," a spokesman said.

Persons from as far away as California attended the sunrise service on Bald Knob Mountain in Southern Illinois. Many of the 2,100 persons attending had slept on the grounds overnight.

SOME 20,000 persons gathered at the Wichita Mountains Wildlife Refuge in Lawton, Okla., at 2:30 a.m. and watched the reenactment of Christ's death and resurrection.

In Vatican City, Pope Paul VI appealed to the world's young people to live Christian lives in an Easter Sunday address before 250,000 pilgrims jammed into St. Peter's square and to television audiences in other parts of the world.

In the main Italian address, the Pope spoke of Christian values. "Yes, this can be the optimist transformation of our way of thinking about life. This pascal transformation we therefore present not only as a conventional and sentimental good wish but as a program that gives direction to life itself," he said.

Then he added: "We believe that the young people of today are particularly predisposed to understand and welcome this good wish, which is full of hope and energy. To young people we address it with stimulating delibereateness: life is beautiful if it is new, it is new if it is good, if it is wise and if it is strong — in a word, if it is Christian."

In Jerusalem tens of thousands of worshipers from East and West celebrated the Resurrection of Jesus Christ in what tourism officials said was the greatest Easter turnout ever of visitors to the Holy Land.

AS THE CITY'S church bells tolled, Latin Patriarch Sgr. Giacono Beltritti, dressed in scarlet and lace vestments, led a procession through the alleyways of the walled old city to the sacred Church of the Holy Sepulchre. At the site, pilgrims thronged to see the tomb believed to be where Jesus Christ was buried.

Hatless was haute stuff in N.Y.

Gleeful youngsters searched their homes and parks for candy and brightly colored eggs Sunday while thousands of well-dressed New Yorkers and tourists strolled down sunny Fifth Avenue in brisk weather for the city's traditional combination Easter parade and fashion show.

The Easter marchers turned the area into a pedestrian mall for three hours, but few bonnets were spotted.

"I guess hats are not as popular as they used to be," said Micheline Stannard of Ottawa, sporting a blue straw, bell-shaped hat. "But I'm French and the French like hats.

Easter egg hunts were held throughout the nation as youngsters searched for goodies hidden by the "Easter Bunny."

But an egg hunt at Ohio Village, Ohio, was cancelled before it began Sunday. Village officials expected about 3,000 children, but more than 10,000 appeared. Some of them showed up early, crashed the gates and ignored age group markers.

THE POPULATION at South Padre Island, Tex., where college students meet each Easter, reached 3,000 persons per square mile Sunday. "I'm sure there's 60,000 at least," an official said. "They were coming in here bumper to bumper until midnight."

$50 tax rebate plan needs more votes: Long

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Carter's plan to give every taxpayer a $50 rebate is in trouble in the Senate and would not pass if it were voted on today, Senate Finance Committee Chairman Russell Long said Sunday.

But Long, in an interview on NBC-TV's "Meet the Press," said he believed Democrats can pick up the six to eight votes needed to get the measure passed. The Louisiana Democrat also denied he was withholding personal support from the rebate because of Carter's cutbacks in $275 million worth of water projects, some of which are in his home state.

"I'm helping the President with that bill," he said. "Without my help it wouldn't have come out of committee. I believe we have a good chance of keeping the $50 rebate there."

BUT RIGHT NOW, he said, "the rebate is in trouble in the Senate. If we voted today I don't think it would pass."

Long was asked if Carter, in his energy message to Congress expected on April 20, would propose a big increase in the gasoline tax to discourage consumption. "That's not what they're going to recommend in my judgment," he replied, predicting there would be a "balanced program" involving such things as encouraging home insulation.

But he said there may be a "major tax on the producers (of gasoline) and some increases in the price," with the net effect that both production and conservation will be encouraged.

Asked if he would support a $500 tax on automobiles that use a lot of gasoline, Long said: "If the President finds the courage to recommend it, I will find the courage to support it."

Holy family lowest rate: Mikva

Hospital cost gap disclosed here

Room costs at two area hospitals were ranked the highest and lowest in a new rate study of various health care costs released Sunday by U.S. Rep. Abner J. Mikva, D-10th.

The survey reports Lutheran General Hospital, Park Ridge, charges $153 per day for a private room and $146 daily for a semi-private room, while Holy Family Hospital, Des Plaines, charges $115 and $105 respectively for the same accommodations.

The charges put the two hospitals at the top and the bottom in a ranking of costs at six hospitals in Mikva's 10th Congressional District.

MIKVA SAID HIS survey shows some hospital charges can vary by as much as 100 per cent. The Evanston Democrat plans to use the survey as part of a Democratic Study Group survey of national health care policies. Mikva is the chairman of the organization.

Besides Lutheran General and Holy Family, Mikva also sent questionnaires to officials at Skokie Valley Hospital, Skokie; St. Francis Hospital, Evanston Hospital and Community Hospital of Evanston.

The survey shows that emergency room costs vary from $19 at Skokie Valley to $30-60 at Lutheran General.

The charge for a chest x-ray ranged from $15 at Lutheran General to $38 at Evanston Hospital.

Similar rate fluctuations were seen in the cost of cholesterol counts, urinalysis, pap smears and electrocardiagrams.

ANOTHER PHASE of the study showed that charges for minor surgical procedures also fluctuated and that the average stay for the same procedure could vary as much as three days.

Charges for hernia operations ranged from $826 at Holy Family to $1,298 at the Community Hospital of Evanston. The average stay for the procedure varied from four days at Skokie Valley to eight and one-half days at St. Francis.

Not all of the hospitals reported rates for all of the surgical procedures so a complete comparison was not made.

In summarizing the results of the survey, Mikva concluded rising hospital costs have become a concern of President Carter and that the President is planning to impose a tight lid on future increases.

Mikva said wide variation in costs can be attributed to hospital efforts to spend money on technological advances. The survey stated that the rising costs in some hospital departments caused by the purchase of modern equipment is sometimes tacked on to charges in other areas of the hospital.

Mikva also said some insurance programs and government programs do not fully reimburse hospitals for actual costs and the difference must be made up in charges to other patients.

AMA asks apology from HEW chief

The Health, Educati'n and Welfare DepartmentS list of big Medicare earners had a 65 percent error rate, the American Medical Assn. in Chicago said Sunday and asked for an apology from HEW Sec. Joseph Califano. "I have forwarded a copy of our survey to Sec. Joseph Califano of HEW," said Dr. James H. Sammons, executive vice president of the AMA. "I have also sent him a letter in which I have asked him. as a fair-minded man, to make an apology on behalf of the department to the physicians who have been falsely and unjustly accused. The survey conducted by the medical association on 203 physicians identified as big Medicare earners was released Sunday. The AMA said the information was wrong on 14 of the 16 top earners — those identified by HEW as receiving more than $250,000 each from Medicaid in 1975.

Man, 18, elected to school board

An 18-year-old has been elected to a school board post for the first time in the history of Illinois. Gordon S. Hirsch, 18, Skokie, defeated Ben Lipin Saturday in the race for a three-year seat on the Niles Township School Board District 219. A 1976 graduate of Niles Township East High School, Hirsch helped lobby for the recently passed state legislation allowing 18 year olds to seek positions on school boards. He is an assistant to state Rep. Peter P. Peters, R-Chicago, who introduced the bill into the General Assembly.

Thompson pays PR firm $20,000

Gov. James R. Thompson said Sunday he pays about $20,000 a year to a Washington-based public relations firm for advice on political and governmental questions. Speaking on WBBM radio's "At Issue" program, Thompson also said he hopes to have a $1 million campaign fund by the end of the year for the 1978 governor's race. Thompson said his campaign fund pays the yearly $20,000 retainer to the public relations firm of Bailey and Derrdor. He said they advise him of possible political consequences to his governmental decisions. But he said he ignored the firm's advise to keep quiet about the gasoline tax increase controversy because he felt he had to take a stand on it.

Dist. 155 voters OK school tax rate increase

CRYSTAL LAKE, (UPI) — Voters in Crystal Lake High School Dist. 155 have approved a referendum increasing the educational tax fund rate, ending a school board threat to eliminate athletic and extracurricular activities.

The vote was 5,719 to 5,210 Saturday to increase the rate by 35 cents. The present tax fund rate is $1.38 per $100 of assessed valuation.

The school board proposed the increase to alleviate a $1 million deficit faced by the district. If defeated, the board said it would have had to eliminate all athletic and extracurricular activities.

Collector pops her bottons

by SAMUEL O. HANCOCK

Du Quoin, Ill. (UPI)—Martha Emerick has a collection of more than 5,000 buttons which she says mirror history since buttons were first made.

Her collection includes ornate, handcarved, ivory, jasperware, blackglass, military, ebomy and crystal buttons and she's been collecting them longer "than I care to remember."

"It would be extremely difficult to determine which category of button is the most sought after," Mrs. Emerick said. "All kinds of buttons are collected by all types of people."

Many people never throw buttons away, Mrs. Emerick says. They are used over and over and sometimes are included as bequests in last wills and testaments.

"IN 1694, by royal declaration, button makers had the right to search shops of tailors for illegal buttons, an illegal button being made of fabric other than hand silk," Mrs. Emerick said.

"By 1693, and in the century that followed, buttons were in sufficient quantity to survive for present day study."

Mrs. Emerick's collection includes the first brass and silver buttons mass-produced in the United States in the early 1800s. She has every conceivable kind of button.

HOW VALUABLE can a button collection be?

"You do not think in terms of money value where buttons are concerned, only the educational value," Mrs. Emerick said.

To all collectors, 1918 is the divider between old and modern buttons, she said.

Military buttons reflect the nation's history in war and campaign buttons mirror its political history and she has them all.

"If I see a card of buttons I like, I'll pick them up hoping they will be valuable later on, but buttons are really expensive right now," Mrs. Emerick said.

Unit plan defeated by 2-1 margin

Unit opposition candidates win Dist. 59 board seats

A slate of candidates opposing the unit school district referendum and the only incumbent who compaigned against the unit proposal were elected to the Dist. 59 Board of Education.

Elected were incumbent Paul Kucharski and newcomers Harold Harvey and Sharon Chavoen.

Dist. 59 residents who turned out in huge numbers to vote on the unit district issue also rejected the reelection bids of incumbents Avis Wold, Donald Zommer and Gerald Smiley.

For two 3-year seats, Kucharski was the top vote-getter with 6,066 votes and Harvey had 4,593 votes. Mrs. Wold received 1,982 votes and Zommer polled 2,528. Newcomer Saul Cohen, also trying for a 3-year seat, received 1,000 votes.

MRS. CHAVOEN beat Smiley for a one-year seat on the board. Voters cast 5,270 ballots for Mrs. Chavoen and 2,548 ballots for Smiley.

Richard Stamm, a newcomer who was unopposed for a two-year term, was elected with 7,068 votes.

Kucharski said he was "personally elated" by the unit district's defeat and his own victory.

"It's been a rough struggle," said Kucharski, 803 Victoria Ln., Arlington Heights. "We're not going to change things overnight. But we will do our very best to bring the level of education in Dist. 59 up to the level (residents) want and really deserve."

Harvey, 200 Marshall, Des Plaines, was a member of the Dist. 59 board from 1969 to 1971. With his election Saturday Harvey said, "The citizens of this area have turned down the way their school district has been run the past four or five years."

DESCRIBING DIST. 59 as a "sick district" trying to regain its health through a unit district, Harvey said, "It is up to the new board of Dist. 59 to make 59 well."

Mrs. Chavoen, 41C Burgundy Ct., Elk Grove Village, said "It has proved the Dist. 59 Board of Education has failed to give what the people wanted," she said. "People basically have said they want it to remain the way it is and to clean house up."

After his defeat Smile said, "It is obvious the community wants a change. I had hoped to be part of that change."

Zommer said he believes his loss was related to the defeat of the unit district, with voters tying the referendum to the board election.

Mrs. Wold could not be reached for comment this weekend.

vote to be much closer.

"The people in this area took a hard look at the facts and made a decision for education," he said.

SABRA PATTERSON, a member of the Dist. 59 School Community Council, said she is "absolutely ecstatic" that people recognized what Dist. 214 is offering them and said they didn't want to lose it.

"The citizens said we don't want a unit district," newly elected Dist. 59 board member Harold Harvey said. "We have said we want a better elementary school district."

Although the unit district question has divided many people, it also has removed the apathy that existed in Elk Grove Township and pushed people to think about their children's education, Dist. 59 board member Paul Kucharski said.

The task of pulling together the different factions is a difficult one, but it can be done, Forest View High School Principal Jack Martin said.

"Fortunately most people involved on both sides were interested in their community even though some were misguided," he said. "Their energies and talents can be directed to providing the community with the best possible education."

OF THE 9,317 voters who turned out for the referendum, 6,299 cast their ballots against the unit district and 3,018 cast their ballots for it.

The referendum suffered its worst loss at Holmes Junior High School in Mount Prospect where it went down by a margin of 7 to 1.

At Dempster Junior High School in Mount Prospect the loss also was overwhelming with the referendum failing by a margin of 3 to 1.

The unit district came closest to passage at the two Elk Grove Village precincts where unit district supporters were expecting success.

At Lively Junior High School in Elk Grove Village the referendum failed by only 34 votes and at Grove Junior High School in Elk Grove Village the unit district lost by 98 votes.

Citizens celebrate referendum loss

by DIANE GRANAT

"Ten people started this nonsense; 10,000 said no."

So said Ed Kenna as he celebrated the downfall of an idea that the voters did not want: a unit school district in Elk Grove Township.

Kenna, an Elk Grove Village trustee and leader of the triumphant Citizens Opposed to the Unit District Formation, was celebrating the referendum's loss with more than 600 persons at the Holiday Inn of Elk Grove, 1000 Busse Rd., Elk Grove Village.

IN A CIVIL war between school districts the secessionists lost. And the victors from High School Dist. 214, who were fighting to keep the union intact, proclaimed "Thanks for Keeping Us Together" on a huge sign taped on a ballroom wall.

AN EXULTANT crowd filled the aisles of the ballroom as leaders of the battle took bows from table tops and made speeches while standing on chairs.

One of the heroes of the evening was Cook County School Supt. Richard Martwick, who originally recommended not holding the referendum based on Dist. 214's merits and because of the potential damage to Dist. 214.

Martwick held a cigar with one hand as he greeted well-wishers with his other hand. Pointing to a high school student at his side, Martwick said, "there's an answer" to why voters defeated the unit district proposal.

"IF THIS 2-to-1 VOTE isn't supportive of Dist. 214, I don't know what is," Martwick said.

Another delighted winner was Edward Gilbert, superintendent of High School Dist. 214.

Pronouncing his "faith in people," Gilbert said he was "particularly pleased because I believe the people in this area took a hard look and made a decision for education.

"I believe the kind of educational program the people of Dist. 214 have was held in high esteem," Gilbert said. "People were cautious in casting that away."

WHILE CHEERS went up for Dist. 214 Saturday night, some unit district opponents still had harsh words for the Dist. 59 proponents of a unit district.

The reason Dist. 59 unit district hopefuls lost the election, "is because they've been running a $15 million corporation like a hot dog stand," said Harold Harvey, a newly elected Dist. 59 board member.

The 10 people "who started this nonsense" to which Kenna referred were members of the Committee of 10 Dist. 59 residents who filed the petition seeking formation of the unit district.

"They had a lot of highfalutin' ideas," Kenna said. "I challenge the Committee of 10 on Monday morning to see what they will do next."

Cawley gets welcomed for thanks

by BILL HILL

From a distance the little hand-painted signs sticking in the ground resemble those commonly used to advertise neighborhood garage sales.

But these have a different message. They just say "Thank You." And at the bottom are green bumper stickers that say "Cawley."

For Marty Cawley, newly elected village trustee in Arlington Heights, it's his way of telling his friends and neighbors thanks for their support and votes in last week's election.

IT GIVES THEM a chance to pull a good joke on the "guy next door" who turned into a politician of sorts. For two days residents of the Surrey Ridge West area on the south edge of Arlington Heighgts have been calling Cawley, saying "you're welcome," and then hanging up.

Friday, as he walked down his quiet residential street, a neighbor lady hugged him, said "you're welcome," and walked away.

"I just wanted to thank the people in the neighborhood," said Cawley, 35, who finished third in the balloting Tuesday with 3,843 votes, more than 700 votes ahead of the next closest candidate. Four trustees were elected.

"All of this gives me a feeling of a community working as a group and shows a lot of communication," Cawley said.

On the day of the election Cawley predicted he would finish fourth or fifth in the balloting. He said he was worried in the early afternoon because voting had been light in his neighborhood, an area he knew he had to carry heavily.

But at 6 p.m., when the polls closed, Surrey Ridge residents were double-parked and lined up to vote. And an overwhelming number voted for Cawley.

It has been those supporters who have been calling. Cawley said he knows they probably will continue to call after he has taken his place on the village board. His question now is: What will they be calling to say?

PASSERSBY unaware of last week's election might not understand Marty Cawley's signs, but the 3,843 residents who elected him to the Arlington Heights Village Board do. Many have called to say "you're welcome."

vote," he said.

After "adjusting" to the board, Weinstein said his "major goal is to make sure the board is unified and to get down to the job of representing the people."

In Dist. 23, incumbents Melvin Lace and Mary Ann Stitak won three-year seats on the board defeating newcomer James Kastner. Lace, winning his fourth term on the board, received 146 votes; Stitak, who was appointed to the board last May, won her first elected term with 129 votes; and Kastner received 95 votes.

Newcomer Jane Adelman received 121 votes to win a one-year term, defeating newcomer Richard Allen who received 65 votes.

Mrs. Adelman said she was "really very pleased. I hope it will be a good year for all of us."

LACE SAID HE believes the reason for his victory "is that they (citizens) trust the board — and it's our business to make sure they have no reason not to. We just have to keep using our imagination to get the most out of what we have."

Mary Ann Stitak was out of town and could not be reached for comment.

Incumbents Richard Bachhuber and John Gmitro retained their seats on the Dist. 214 Board of Education in an uncontested election.

There were 9,682 votes cast for Bachhuber, 625 S. Edward, Mount Prospect. Gmitro, 339 S. Windsor, Arlington Heights, received 9,107 votes. The unusually large number of votes is the result of the voter turnout for the unit district referendum.

14% hike in Omni-House funding to be suggested

A 14 per cent increase in funding for Omni-House: Youth Services Bureau will be recommended by the Arlington Heights village administration, ending a budget dispute between the village and the counseling agengcy.

Village Mgr. L. A. Hanson will submit the recommendation to the village board's finance committee meeting at 7:30 p.m. today at the municipal building, 33 S. Arlington Heights Rd. It calls for Omni-House to receive $33,000 in the coming fisical year.

The finance committee also will discuss a proposed 10 per cent parking tax on commercial parking lots in the village. The tax has been opposed by Arlington Park Race Track officials.

HARRY WELLS, associate director of Omni-House, said an appropriation of $33,000 will permit the agency to continue providing the same level of services to the village. Omni-House had requested $43,500 so another full-time staff person could be hired.

That request was rejected when Omni-House officials refused to allow village officials to have the name and addresses of Omni-House clients to evaluate the counseling programs. Subsequently, a report written by Edward Geiss, village human services coordinator, justified cutting back funding of Omni-House from $29,000 to $20,300.

"We're going to recommend that evaluation of Omni-House be continued, since there is a question of how the evaluation was conducted and the short time frame it was pushed into," Hanson said.

Man, 25, charged in school bombing

Dwight Allan Armstrong, wanted in the United States for the fatal 1970 bombing at the University of Wisconsin, was quietly arrested in his Toronto apartment and faces extradition later this week, police said Sunday. Armstrong, 25, has been a fugitive for seven years on murder and arson charges stemming from the bombing Aug. 24, 1970, of the Army Mathematics Research facility on the UW campus in Madison. Toronto police said Sunday Armstrong was arrested late Saturday night in his apartment in a north Toronto residential area. Police refused any immediate information on how long Armstrong had been living in Toronto or his occupation during his stay.

FAA probes plane collision

Federal aviation experts investigating the collison of two planes near the Reading, Pa., municipal airport said Sunday one craft was cleared for landing just prior to the accident but the other had no communication with the tower. Luther Gatlin, an official of the National Transportation Safety Board, said an Altair Airlines twin-engine Nord 262 was cleared for approach to the runway Saturday shortly before it collided with a single-engine Cessna 195. Four persons, three of them in the Nord, were killed instantly. Rescuers spent Easter weekend looking for more possible victims and additional pieces of the shattered planes in a five-mile area of heavy woods and steep hills. Gatlin said the Cessna "had no communication with the Reading tower" at the time the Nord was cleared for approach and added no information was immediately available from the tapes from the tower.

Gunman disrupts church service

A retired Air Force major, saying he had a debt to repay, walked into a Baptist church in Biloxi, Miss. during Easter Sunday services and shot himself and a dog. The neatly dressed man, identified by Biloxi police as Ford Dawson, 53, of Gulfport, also fired one shot into a door. Dawson was taken to Howard Memorial Hospital for surgery. One church member said the man brought the dog into the church himself. He first chatted with, then struggled with, some churchgoers. Then he shot the dog in the head, put the pistol to his own temple and fired. Thousands of the Gulf Coast area viewed the beginning of the incident live over television station WLOX, which broadcasts the church services. The station cut off coverage before the man shot himself.

Carter most influential: study

President Carter, with an ability to get people to say "I believe in you," is the nation's most influential leader, according to a survey of "key decision makers" published Sunday. Federal Reserve Board Chairman Arthur Burns finished second in the poll of 1,169 "decision makers in politics, business and the professions" published in this week's U.S. News and World Report. Participants were asked to choose the six people who exercise the most influence in national decision making. Almost all those surveyed chose Carter as the nation's most influential leader. One of those queried, identified as a midwestern state's attorney, said the President seems to have the ability to get people to say "I believe in you." The report said a clear consensus had emerged "that President Carter in a short time has positioned himself firmly at the nation's helm."

'Food stamp plan looks good'

An administration official predicts Congress will approve President Carter's proposal to dole out free food stamps even though the Democratic party's top congressional farm spokesmen oppose it. Under existing law, a family eligible for food stamps must buy some for cash before it can receive an additional allocation of free "bonus" stamps. Under the proposal Carter sent Congress last week, there would be no purchase. An eligible family simply would be given the bonus stamps. Administration experts say about 7 million of the current 17.3 million food stamp beneficiaries would get smaller bonuses than they now receive or would be dropped from the program. Others would get unchanged or increased bonuses, and nearly 3 million additional people might enter the program.

Communists open offices in Madrid

Communists in Madrid, Spain opened scores of party offices around Spain Sunday and celebrated the end of 38 years of illegality and repression with horn-honking, flag-waving motorcades and neighborhood fiestas. Party leaders issued a statement recalling the sacrifices of thousands of members since the party was outlawed by the late Generalissimo Francisco Franco, and thanking other political groups for supporting its legalization. "We are going to participate with full determination and responsibility in the (June) election in order to win them for democracy," they said. The government granted official recognition to the Communist party Saturday in a move seen as another step in Spain's abolishment of Franco-era repression and shift toward democracy. The party also announced the imminent return from 38 years of exile is Moscow of party President Dolores Ibarruri, 81, known as "La Pasionaria" for her stirring calls to arms during the 1936-1939 Civil War.

Libyan consulate burned

Demonstrators Sunday set fire to the Libyan consulate in Alexandria, Egypt retaliating against pistol shots fired at them by a consulate employe, press reports said. The reports said the demonstrators, protesting an attack Saturday on the Egyptian embassy in Benghazi, were marching peacefully outside the consulate shouting slogans against Libyan strongman Col. Moammar Khadafy. The demonstration got out of hand when a Libyan consulate employe fired pistol shots from the terrace of the consulate's second floor, the reports said. The marchers retaliated by setting fire to the building. Firefighters extinguished the blaze after it destroyed the first and second floors, the reports said. About 200 Libyans had stormed the Egyptian embassy in Benghazi Saturday, smashing its windows and doors and wrecking its furniture.

Three assassinated in London

A gunman of "Middle Eastern appearance" Sunday assassinated a former premier of the Yemen Arab Republic, his wife and a Yemeni diplomat in an automobile outside a luxury hotel overlooking Hyde Park, London. Scotland Yard said Abdulla Ahmed Hajari, 65, his wife Fatimah, 40, and Abdulla Ali Al-Hammani, 45, Minister and Plenipotentiary of the Yemen Arab Republic Embassy, were dead on arrival at a hospital. Hajari, serving as deputy chief of the Yemen's supreme court at the time of his death, was premier between 1973 and 1974.

Hajari and his wife walked out of the 19-story Royal Lancaster Hotel just north of Hyde Park and got into their Mercedes Benz, driven by Hammani when they were accosted, the spokesman said.

Yolk's on us: chick counted before it hatched

by STEVE BROWN

The eerie Elk Grove Village Easter egg episode ended Sunday and, well, err — the yolk was on Walter E. Beaudette Sr.

At 4:49 p.m. Beaudette painstakingly tapped the suspect egg that had chirped and vibrated before a crowd of nine persons Friday night.

Friends and relatives stood by wondering if what was unquestionably a baby chick had endured 40 hours on a heating pad successfully.

TAP, TAP, TAP. Three light raps at the plain, white shell and the outer covering was breeched.

Glop. No chick, just yolk and white tumbled into the waiting bowl.

Walter appeared stunned. His wife Roseanne appeared stunned. His sons all quickly disavowed they were related to their mother and father. Another relative suggested he had been out of the country when the alleged chirping, an event that had turned the annual egg coloring tradition into something special, had occurred.

WAIT. "MAYBE IT is one of the other eggs," said one son gazing out on two dozen brightly colored spheres nestled in that green Easter basket grass before him.

Without hesitation, the family chipped and picked the shells away from the other eggs until all that was left were crumbs and the making for a months' supply of egg salad.

"Last year, she heard a watermelon moo," said another son struggling for a moment of comic relief.

"I would have bet a paycheck on the fact there was a chick in there," Beaudette said.

"WHAT WAS chirping then?" said Roseanne, who not only had heard the egg, but along with her sister felt it vibrating.

No explanations were available, just more testimonials from family and friends that something had chirped and vibrated inside the shell.

A neighbor, who said he once operated an egg farm, assured the couple Saturday that indeed there was something besides yolk and white in the once chirping shell.

Now it is all history. What might have been the Wonder of Wellington Avenue is now just a memory or more likely breakfast. Scrambled or fried?

FOR 40 HOURS Roseanne Beaudette and her husband watched the plain egg in the foreground after it had chirped and vibrated Friday night. The vigil ended Sunday and the egg and six dozen brothers and sisters all looked exactly the same, no chick, just yolk and white.

Plutonium halt correct choice

Pres. Jimmy Carter has taken a step toward nuclear sanity with his decision last week to abandon plutonium as a nuclear fuel.

His decision will be controversial and will make solution to the nation's energy problem more difficult because it will at least slow development of "breeder reactors," the technology experts have said could end energy shortages forever.

However, Carter's decision is a clear victory for those who fear that, by developing nuclear reactors based on the most deadly of all nuclear materials, the human race would in fact be setting itself up for Armageddon.

There are several dangers to plutonium. By itself it is a deadly poison. An accident involving the substance could easily result in disaster.

In addition, small amount of plutonium can be fairly easily converted into nuclear weapons either by underdeveloped nations or, worse, by terrorist groups.

Manufacture of plutonium through breeder reactors would increase the amount of the material available — and necessarily increase the odds of its falling into the wrong hands.

Proponents of plutonium technology have said safeguards could make the installations "virtually" foolproof. There would be only a tiny chance for an accident or for theft of the material, they say.

The problem with that argument, however, is that foolproof as any system might be, no human system can be 100 per cent safe. It requires just one mistake to cause irrevocable tragedy where plutonium is concerned.

Carter has said he does not expect other countries, including Britain, France, Germany and Japan, to give up plans for breeder reactors. However, he has urged them to ban the export of plutonium production facilities to other nations to prevent the spread of nuclear capabilities.

However, it is possible that Carter's lead in spelling out the risks of plutonium will in fact lead other nations to consider more carefully the risks they are taking in this field.

Since the first nuclear explosion in 1945, the human race has lived with the fact that it has the capacity to destroy itself. Carter's action on plutonium cannot change that.

It can, however, focus public attention on the risks attendant to developing nuclear power. In that way, it might be a small step toward saving us all.

Got to stop using that stuff. It might fall into unscrupulous hands!

Endorsement lesson

Back in 1970 when he first ran for office, a case could be made that Michael J. Bakalis was a political novice.

Today he is State Comptroller and has forfeited that label. He has also forfeited the right to use that as an excuse when he does something silly.

Something silly is precisely what he did recently when he sent a letter to Des Plaines mayoral candidate Lorraine Angell "endorsing" her candidacy.

Mrs. Angell used the letter as any candidate would. She sent out a press release publicizing the endorsement.

Now Bakalis has explained that he didn't mean he considered Mrs. Angell better qualified to be mayor than any of the other six candidates running.

It turns out that Bakalis doesn't even know Mrs. Angell really well. Her nephew worked in his campaign and is now an intern in his office. Mrs. Angell, Bakalis said, "is a good person and someone who ought to participate in government."

It is a fine thing for Bakalis to want to encourage good people to run for office. It's quite another thing for him to issue "endorsements" that turn out to be non-endorsements when he is unfamiliar with the issues and candidates involved in a campaign.

Voters of Des Plaines will be right to conclude that Bakalis' opinion on the mayoral race ought not carry much weight.

He has less ability to judge the qualification of the candidates than the average Des Plaines resident.

And Bakalis would be well advised to stay out of local politicial races. He cannot do himself or "good people" he likes any good by becoming involved where he isn't familiar with the entire cast of characters.

Duffer: everybody

The golfer's dictionary

Jim Bishop

Golf. Sex under the sun. Frustrating fun. A little ball on a great big one. Lawful insanity. The Happy Hacker. It is a game, a sport, in which grown men flog, flail, flush, fracture and foul a green landscape on which 18 holes are hidden.

It was named by drunken Scots after listening to barking dogs. Golf is played by 20 million immature American men whose wives think they are out there having fun. The rhetoricial question, "What do you lie?," is accented on the final word.

Some time ago I devised a lexicon of golf terms. As you draw the old bag full of clubs out of the garage, try to memorize these:

GIMME: AN agreement between two losers who can't putt.

BALL: A round white sphere; the only thing which smiles after the first hole.

IT'LL PLAY: Your partner's cheerful comment after you hook, slice, fade or dribble into the woods. It is synonymous with "won't hurcha." Bad news.

STYMIE: An object directly in line between your ball and the green. Like a five-story apartment house built while your ball was in flight.

TREE: SOMETHING you shoot through because someone said they are 80 per cent air. A painful fallacy.

WATER HAZARD: The final resting place of all golf balls. A series of 40-fathom lakes which should be airmailed to drought-stricken California.

GREEN: A far-off oasis featured by an alien flag on a stick. Never-never land.

DUFFER: All of us.

RUB OF THE GREEN: What you take from your wallet and give to your adversary after the match is over.

RELAX: A state no golfer can afford if he wants to play. The proper emotional state is tension, hatred and repeated humiliation.

MULLIGAN: Invented by an Irishman who wanted to hit one more 20-yard grounder.

PUTT: APPLYING the blade of a small club in a tender manner to the back of a ball. This exercise is always followed by anguished eyes directed toward heaven.

FAIRWAY: A long broad stretch of grass seldom seen by determined players.

TRAP: Also bunker. Like prison, easy to get into, hard to get out.

GROUND UNDER REPAIR: The whole course.

GIMME-A-SEVEN: The player's words to the scorekeeper after carding an 11.

JEEZ: A futile appeal to the deity while the ball is in flight.

GOOD MISS: A shot which shears every third blade of grass.

MARKER: A disc placed a foot nearer the hole than the ball.

PIGEON: Something every golfer needs. Someone who can make 126 look good.

O.B.: Out of bounds, as in making a pass at your fellow sufferer's wife. A stake akin to what Dracula had hammered in his heart.

SHANK: A horrifying trick shot executed by hackers who aiming north, hit east. Not quite in the class of leprosy, which is curable.

STARTING TIME: The only time you will find the doctor on time.

HOOK: The addiction of 50 per cent of all golfers.

SLICE: The weakness of the other half.

HOLE HIGH: Right club, wrong direction.

CLUB: A POORLY designed weapon which the golfer must learn to embrace with both hands no matter how many times it betrays him.

BLAST: Hitting two inches of sand behind the ball. Also a British expletive uttered as a result of the result.

PRO: An optimistic doctor who has a cure for dying.

LOCKER ROOM: Sanctuary for ugly nudists. A sporty funeral parlor.

BACK SWING: Removing the clubhead from the presence of the ball. Trying to bring the club down to the same position is farcical, impossible and conducive to knee-jerk, head-snapping, making the golfer look like a ballet dancer in spikes.

WEDGE: Something your wife drives between you and Saturday morning. Also a weapon used to propel a ball from one bunker to another.

His actions a living rebuke to terrorist revenge

Martha Angle and Robert Walters

In Washington

WASHINGTON—On the day the siege was lifted and the tension dissolved in tears of thanksgiving, a graying former business executive sat in his downtown office here talking of the violence which scars American life.

He did not waste breath condemning Hamaas Abdul Khaalis and his Hanafi Muslim disciples who had brought such terror to the nation's capital in deranged and misguided retaliation for the 1973 murders of Khaalis' family by rival Black Muslims.

He did not have to condemn them, for in his own quiet fashion Nelson T. (Pete) Shields is a living rebuke to Khaalis and all his ilk.

Shields is no stranger to violence and grief. In the spring of 1974, his 23-year-old son was killed by a Black Muslim gunman in the last of San Francisco's infamous "Zebra" slayings.

UNLIKE KHAALIS, Shields did not succumb to bitter fantasies of revenge. Instead, he "made a vow to do everything in my power to reduce the probability of someone else's son suffering the same fate."

At the time of his son's murder, Shields was a $40,000-a-year marketing manager for the DuPont Company whose life had been largely devoted to pursuit of the almighty dollar and the comforts which come with successful corporate ladder-climbing.

Today, he is the $10,000-a-year chairman of the National Council to Control Handguns (NCCH), a three-year-old grassroots organization established to lobby for the adoption of strict controls on handguns.

It was not an easy transition to make. Shields had never given any thought to gun control before his son was killed. He knew little about politics, even less about lobbying.

"AFTER MY SON'S death, I started to read up on the issue as much as I could. I looked around for organizations and found NCCH, and began coming down here (from Wilmington, Del.) one day a week on my vacation time," he recalled.

In June 1975, Shields took a leave of absence from DuPont to devote more time to the fledgling gun control lobby. Last Dec. 31, he severed his ties with the company after more than a quarter century.

He is no longer a political novice. He understands how jumpy the mere mention of gun control makes most members of Congress, and the pressure the National Rifle Association exerts upon all those who seek to limit access to firearms.

But Shields and his organization are picking up strength with each passing month. NCCH has just completed a mailing of 100,000 soliciting new members at $15 a head, and is preparing for a second round of 500,000 pieces.

THE COUNCIL RECENTLY won an important legal battle in defense of the District of Columbia's new handgun law with the assistance of two of Washington's most powerful law firms — both of which contributed their expertise for free.

The direct mail firm which helped Common Cause get off the ground is helping Shields build the NCCH membership, and one of the nation's most prestigious political consultants is about to sign up for a full-scale assault on Congress this year.

He does not expect easy sailing. He knows that NCCH can not hope to match the resources of the National Rifle Association. But he also knows that public opinion polls consistently show a huge majority of the American people favor tougher gun controls, and he is prepared to spend years if necessary translating that passive support into an active constituency.

"I've been chasing money, prestige and the good life for 26 years," he told us. "Sure, I still like all those things. But maybe my son's death was the good Lord's way of turning my life to more productive paths."

A curfew could help curb vandals

When I attended church March 6, Father Morrison told us of the destruction and vandalism that occurred the morning before to Church of the Holy Spirit, Grove Junior High School and the youth center. I could hardly believe what I was hearing. Then the report was in the Monday paper.

I was going to be a passive citizen and not write a letter. However, since I have a cold and fever and am unable to attend my Bible study, I feel I have to make this evening useful. So here goes.

Earlier in the day I took my two little boys out for a walk around the block. The things I found on that nicely shaped kidney block! First of all, glass all over the sidewalk, grass and street. Secondly, tire tracks across the lawn on two corners. Thirdly, an empty whiskey bottle.

My husband and I have been living in this area of Elk Grove for one year. We lived elsewhere in Elk Grove for six and a half years. Never did I see such vandalism. We have had a firecracker blown off on our stoop and my car, which was sitting on the driveway, was almost hit one night. Mind you, the hour was 12:25 a.m. Never have I heard so much tire screeching at night and at all hours.

Parents, don't you realize you have a job entrusted to you by the Lord? You are going to have to answer to Him and account to Him for the way you raised the children He gave to you.

To help make the job easier, I propose this village passes a 10:30 p.m. curfew so that all young people will be in their parents' homes and not on the streets.

Congratulations to the Fremd High School girls and their coach. They represented all of Palatine so well.

MANY TIMES I have read of the great works of the paramedics and thought no more of it. On Saturday March 26 we were having a wedding reception at the Plum Grove Club when a niece of mine became ill. We called the Palatine paramedics and their quick response and the way they handled the situation had everyone at ease.

The great group of paramedics were: Tom Dolleslager, Lyle Bemis and Jim Eriksen.

Human rights issue, Soviets talks on trade not contradictory: expert

NEW YORK (UPI)—President Carter's strong stand on human rights has temporarily soured relations with the Soviet Union. But eventually it may ease the establishment of more friendly U.S.-Soviet trade relations.

This apparent paradox is the opinion of Dr. Herbert Levine, professor of economics at the University of Pennsylvania and an authority on Soviet economics and planning.

Levine told a recent symposium sponsored by the Sperry Rand Corp. there is a large body of opinion in the United States opposed to improvement of trade relations with the Soviet Union.

"AND I THINK this is the real meaning of the Jackson amendment, that Jackson was able to draw upon these anti-Soviet feelings and was able to put an overt challenge to Soviet sovereignty into the law," Levine said.

The amendment, named for Sen. Henry M. Jackson, D-Wash., linked the granting of "most favored nation" trading rights for the Soviet Union with that country's policy on Jewish emigragtion. The Soviet Union rejected the demand it give guarantees on levels of Jewish emigration.

"One aspect of the Carter administration's approach on human rights can be viewed as a separation of the concern of Americans for human rights in Russia from negotiations," Levine said.

IT IS GOING to be very difficult for senators to attack an administration bill that calls for normalization of relations with the Soviet Union, that calls for most favored nation treatment, on the grounds that our foreign policy is immoral, that we are not concerned with these moral issues," he said.

"The President has established his case and if he can win that battle by getting the Russians to accept his idea of nonlinkage (between human rights and negotiations), I think he has a much better chance than the previous administration of getting (trade normalization) through."

On the possible Soviet reaction to the human rights issue, Levin said: "My feeling is that as we all — the Russians and this country and the Western Europeans — get used to President Carter's expressed concerns, and they don't come as rapidly or as continuously and it just becomes part of U.S. policy, that negotiations with the Russians will continue."

Levine said the Soviet Union considered normalization of trade relations with the West, and especially with the United States, as "very important."

"They want to be accepted as a modern industrial nation with all of the privileges that other modern industrial nations give each other," he said.

Levine said Soviet industry was organized so progress in disarmament, if achieved, would allow them immediately to switch military production lines to nonmiiitary output.

"What the Russians want to do is start exporting highly fabricated goods rather than just raw materials. This is the new frontier for them. Whether they will be able to do this remains to be seen."

"Give me another chaser ... that's what my creditors are doing!"

Rolls dealers see gas tax as cloud on luxury buys

DETROIT (UPI) — Price tags on some Rolls-Royce cars range up to $90,000, so another $500 or so for a "gas guzzler" tax should not bother Rolls-Royce dealers, but it does.

"Our cars are better in every respect, but there are many things in common. They have four wheels and a motor like everyone else's cars. And they use gasoline," said George W. Lewis, president of Rolls-Royce Motors, Inc.

Lewis has been setting sales records for the luxury car firm in this country — 1,230 automobiles in 1976 and an expected 1,400 this year. He's concerned that any tax on large cars — like the one being considered by President Carter — would change the way Americans think of luxury cars.

"A gas guzzler tax would be like a cloud over our heads," Lewis said. "It wouldn't hurt our sales, though."

WHAT MIGHT happen, Lewis admits, is that people may not want to drive any car that is not socially acceptable. That, he says, would happen only if Americans change their whole way of living.

"When the luxury car is no longer acceptable, a lot of other things will have to go, things lkeyihcs,atprivate have to go, things like yachts, private planes and anything that makes one guy different from another," Lewis said. "There are some people who would like to homogenizt it so everyone would drive the same kind of car."

The Rolls-Royce lineup averages 12 miles per gallon in the government's tests — in line with other luxury models though below the Cadillac Seville and the Lincoln Versailles, the two most expensive United States cars.

THE BRITISH auto firm sells more of its automobiles in this country than in the United Kingdom and is keeping up the interest with two new models introduced today — a $49,000 Silver Wraith II and a $43,200 Silver Shadow II that weighs 4,995 pounds to rank it among the heaviest cars sold in this country. It's also rated at 12 M.P.G. — among the lowest.

Lewis says Rolls-Royce could go the way of lower-priced cars and shave weight to save fuel. But then the car might not be a Rolls-Royce.

It might not have the heavy, elegant walnut veneer trim that comes from hand-selected trees from Italy's Lombardy Plain. Or a transmission that automatically shifts itself to "park" when the ignition key is removed and a self-emptying ashtray.

Three newcomers win seats on Harper board

Three incumbents on the Harper College Board of Trustees were resoundingly defeated by three newcomers who promised more responsiveness to the community and caution in proceeding with Harper's second campus.

Newcomers Joan Klussman, Arlington Heights; Janet Bone, Palatine, and David Tomchek, Barrington, were the top vote-getters for the three seats, followed by newcomer Dean Anderson, Wheeling, and incumbents William Kelly, Arlington Heights; Robert Rausch, Hoffman Estates, and Judith Troehler, Mount Prospect.

The vote totals were Mrs. Klussman, 7,790; Tomcheck, 6,515; Mrs. Bone, 6,114; Anderson, 5,415; Kelly, 5,123; Rausch, 4,714; and Mrs. Troehler, 4,411.

Rausch, who was trying for his second term on the board, said he believes he lost because "the teachers union was pretty well organized. They had the muscle and the force out there."

Mrs. Klussman, Mrs. Bone and Tomchek were supported as a slate by the Harper teachers union, which is affiliated with the American Federation of Teachers.

KELLY AND Mrs. Troehler could not be reached for comment on their defeats.

Supporters of the slate were at polling places Saturday, handing out flyers, particularly at the Elk Grove Township Dist. 59 polling places where voter turnout was very high because of the unit school district referendum. Their theme was "vote for a change at Harper."

Mrs. Klussman, Mrs. Bone and Tomchek had urged caution in proceeding with a second campus in Wheeling Township while the incumbents argued strongly for it in their campaigns.

The board had been criticized for being a rubber stamp for the administration, and the three winners stressed their independence and willingness to ask questions and investigate on their own.

In addition, Tomchek strongly criticized the board for what he considered a "whitewash" during the board's investigation last summer of possible policy violations by Harper Pres. Robert Lahti.

Tomchek said Sunday that as a board member "I want to assure the community that I will see to it that the college is responsive to the community and that there will not be any special privileges for board members or administrators."

He credited his win in part to "a significant amount of support from a significant number of people at Harper who follow the elections and are concerned about the quality of people on the board."

Tomchek is a professional negotiator for the Illinois Education Assn., a statewide teachers union that is a rival of the union to which the Harper faculty belongs.

MRS. KLUSSMAN, a six-year member of the Arlington Heights Dist. 25 Board of Education, said she was "sure my experience as a board member helped me as far as people realizing that I had experience working with school districts and boards."

She said she will "use that experience to help Harper with its needs in the years ahead."

Mrs. Bone, a free-lance writer, said the election of all newcomers "should not be thought of as a divisive thing but rather as some community direction — certainly to take a closer look at the second campus."

Club a neighborhood tradition

Knitting friendships with needles

by ELEANOR RIVES

We call it our "sewing" club, using the term loosely, for a good many things totally unrelated to needle and thread have gone under the bridge since this bunch first started meeting once a month.

Sewing was, to begin with, a good excuse for keeping touch with neighbors, all of whom lived within a Mount Prospect block of each other, and all of whom literally disappeared at the outset of winter, reappearing only a good six weeks after the groundhog had seen his shadow.

Eight of us decided to meet once a month in each other's homes and began doing so in December 1963, at a time in our lives when our children were all in school and we could while away an afternoon without interruption.

NONE OF US was an expert anything. At that time, our horizons tended to be limited to taking care of our husbands, our children and our homes. We had countless socks that needed sorting and mending, buttons to replace, pant legs to take up and let down again with the passage of time and the sprout of the child, our own hemlines to adjust to meet the changing whims of fashion.

That was 146 meetings ago, or thereabouts. Since then, who knows how many quilts have been quilted, rugs have been hooked, sweaters have been knitted or crocheted, sequin-spattered Christmas ornaments and tree skirts have been put together? Alice spent hours manicuring tiny, intricate flower pictures for her decoupage; Helen captured colorful birds in needlepoint to hang on her wall; Thelma made her own embroidered pillows; Lillian repaired jewelry; and June embroidered a Norwegian bell pull.

ALL THIS WAS without benefit of lessons or instructor. The deft have helped the less deft, and nowhere could you find a more generous mutual admiration society.

Sewing club has been a showcase for other talents, too. Betty loved to tell slightly off-color jokes; Thelma became unofficial book reviewer, though her taste ran mostly to the occult; LaVergne, the first to hook a rug, conned everybody Tom Sawyer style into trying their hand at it. It was completed in record time.

Club meetings have been an opportunity, too, for the hostess to dust out her antique cups, fix a fancy table and serve her most delectable dessert with coffee. Many a member skipped lunch so she could afford these scrumptious calories. Recipes found their way into each household. Lucky the husband whose dinner dessert was left over from sewing club.

AFTER A FEW YEARS, we added a summer luncheon outing and a Christmas party with gift exchange to our schedule. As the years went by and members' children turned to adults, occasionally a young grandmother who had promised to sit that day would show up with a baby in tow, settling the little one comfortable on a blanket on the floor. We had something new to admire.

Sewing club still is going strong. Its members continue to number eight, though a few have moved away and a few others have taken their place. It makes no pretense of being anything other than a neighborhood get-together; it has no ambition to be more than that. There are no officers, no minutes, no dues.

It is really a "sewing" club? One member suggested it is more "an exchange of ideas" among good friends.

Whatever it is, any group that has continued for 14 years and has cemented such close neighborly friendships must have something good going for it.

Helen crochets an ecru cotton doily.

Program directory available

Trying to find a new and different program for your next club meeting? Need an idea for a special event that members will greet wtth enthusiasm? How about light and lively entertainment for a guest night?

The Herald may be able to help.

It's time again for updating the annual directory of more than 200 suggestions for program chairmen. The 1977 list is now ready for distribution and free to everyone.

It may be picked up at the Herald offices at 217 W. Campbell or 114 W. Campbell, Arlington Heights.

TOPICS RANGE from A for abortion, antiques and arts-crafts to V for variety shows and W for women's rights. Sorry, there are no program suggestions for X, Y and Z.

In a serious vein, the listings include conservation ,education, legal rights and safety, among others. For a lighter program, how about food, fashion, gardening or book reviews?

The directory offers all kinds of cultural and musical programs. And, for the children, there are educational and entertainment tips galore.

SOME OF THE listings are available at no charge. Others require a fee or ask a donation. All are printed as a public service from The Herald to our readers and are as near to you as the phone.

Those wishing the directory by mail should send 75 cents with their name and address to Program Directory, Paddock Publications, Box 280, Arlington Heights, 60006.

Anyone having a program suggestion to add to next year's listings may call Doris McClellan, 394-2300 ext. 251.

New product helps adjust patterns

Eunice Farmer

Sew simple

Dear Readers: Many of you have written and asked about what products to use when preserving patterns or designing or altering them. I have found a new product that can be of a great help for many of these sewing needs.

It's called "Trace a Pattern" and is made by the Stacy Company. It's inexpensive, strong, transparent, sheer and has a web-like appearance.

"Trace a Pattern" can be used to duplicate your favorite pattern, alter patterns or make adjustments in them. Place it over ready-made garments and you can immediately see the grain line, the outline of the garment, etc., and come up with a workable pattern to copy.

To make a sample pattern to check for fit before cutting into expensive fabric, machine stitch on "Trace a Pattern" with a long stitch that can be easily removed. When adjustments have been made, you can actually use the "Trace a Pattern" for cutting the fabric.

This is only the beginning. I'm sure you will find many other uses for this product. Please let me hear from you as soon as you try it.

This week's winner of the gold blazer buttons is Beckie Bixby, P. O. Box 262, Grand Island, Neb. 68801. Her tip:

"To keep from snagging fabric that is difficult to place under the buttonhole attachment of your sewing machine, cut a piece of wax paper approximately six inches square.

"Fold the wax paper double and slip it over the edge of the fabric so that the paper is on the top and bottom of fabric.

"Slide the fabric and paper under the buttonhole attachment, adjust to the correct position, slip the paper off, lower the presser foot and you're ready to stitch.

"After buttonhole has been stitched, you may again slip the paper over the fabric to remove from machine."

For the booklet, "Your Pattern and You," mail 25 cents and a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request to Eunice Farmer, Box 4994, Des Moines, Iowa 50306.

Dear Eunice Farmer: I love the fusible web-type interfacing, but wonder if there is any way to avoid the mess of having it stick to my iron. —Mrs. M. K. M.

Dear Mrs. M. K. M.: Yes, it is a mess when it sticks to your iron. I'm sure it has happened at least once to every gal who sews.

I would recommend that whenever you use this type of web that fuses two layers of fabric together, you cut it slightly smaller than the area to be fused. Carefully place it on the fabric and proceed as the manufacturer's instructions suggest.

I also recommend you pre-test any fabric that is to be fused. Because of the excessive moisture involved, you must be careful not to use it where the fabric might shrink. Also, it is not recommended for very sheer fabrics and silks.

Although today we have many new wonderful products that make our sewing easier, it is still important to

The doctor says

Medicines can help migraine sufferers

My husband has severe headaches. He has been to several doctors and they have called them migraine, vascular or cluster headaches. The last doctor he went to put him on Caffergot P-B suppositories. He was a lot better, in fact, if he used suppositories each night he didn't have headaches.

A friend of ours was on Caffergot P-B and said it caused her to have a heart attack. Since then my husband has been afraid to use them.

He is having the headaches very bad again. Could the Caffergot P-B cause a heart attack? He has had all kinds of tests and is in very good health otherwise. He is nearly 50 years old.

The pain of migraine headaches is caused by the arteries to the head region. Before the attack occurs the arteries constrict. This can cause a severe limitation of blood flow to parts of the brain. It is usually responsible for symptoms related to vision. This phase also may cause changes that resemble a transitory stroke in severe cases.

The second phase is when the arteries dilate. The dilated artery stretches tiny nerve fibers in the walls of the arteries to cause the pain.

The Caffergot P-B contains ergotamine tartrate, a drug that acts directly on the small muscles in the arteries to contract them and constrict the artery. By eliminating the over-dilation the medicine relieves the pain.

Because the medicine causes arteries to constrict it is true that it should not be used in heart patients or patients with disease in the arteries to the legs. If your husband uses it he should not use more than five suppositories a week and he should try to limit the use of the medicine. Despite these drawbacks, in selected patients and in proper amounts it is a good medicine for migraine headaches.

Your husband could profit from paying attention to his lifestyle. A need to achieve to gain approval is characteristic of the migraine patient. To give you more information on this aspect of migraine headaches I am sending you The Health Letter number 2-9, Headache: Man's Most Common Pain. Others who want information on headaches can send 50 cents for it with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for mailing. Send your request to me in care of Paddock Publications, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York N.Y. 10019.

The vascular changes that cause the migraine headache can be induced by emotional tension and fatigue. Other causes include alcohol, certain cheeses and wine, monosodium glutamate found in Chinese cooking, nitrates found in hotdogs and other cured meats and chocolate. Flickering lights can precipitate an attack in some people and can cause an epileptic seizure in some epileptics. This is a partial list of some of the important factors in daily living patterns that influence the frequency of attacks.

Your husband would not have to use Caffergot P-B or other medicines containing ergotamine tartrate. Some patients do well with Sansert, which helps to decrease sensitivity to pain and others do well with Inderal which acts to prevent dilatation of the arteries. But he will need to stay with his doctor and follow a program for best results.

Dampening twine keeps package well-wrapped

Dear Dorothy: I've recently been introduced to that "other" delivery service. With our children in other cities, it sure makes things cheaper to mail, and what's more you don't have to worry about the size or weight of the packages. Only one thing still annoys me: how to tighten twine so it won't come off in transit. — Carole V. Bryan

Just wet the last 12 to 18 inches of the twine. When it dries, it will pull the rest of the cord tight.

Dear Dorothy: Cleaned the inside of our percolator with a coffee pot cleaner, but the spout still is stained. How do I get this curious spot clean? — Amy Valenstein

Dampen a pipe cleaner, sprinkle cleanser on it and pull it back and forth until the spout is clean. Then rinse. If no one around the house smokes a pipe, get the cleaners anyway. They come in handy for many things.

Dear Dorothy: I'm thoroughly puzzled by all the references to boiled linseed oil and not trying to boil it yourself. What's this double-talk all about? — J.G. Bogle

It's a drying oil used in paints and varnishes. It has a number of other valuable uses, but the "boiled" part is a flaky name to give the stuff. Recommend "boiled linseed oil" and some people think you have to boil it, which is highly dangerous. The correct word should be "treated," which is what they do at the factory. See?

Dear Dorothy: I like that idea of letting dishes "air-dry." As my machine doesn't have this kind of cycle, I open the door after the final rinse cycle and let the dishes air-dry naturally. — Lynn Mackey

(Mrs. Ritz welcomes questions and hints. If a personal reply is required, please enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope. Write to her in care of Paddock Publications, Box 280, Arlington Heights, Ill. 60006).

Happenings

'Kaper' for Homemakers

Guests are invited to a special program this month for Mount Prospect Homemaker Unit, a Kitchen Kapers demonstration by Laura Kabin. The date is Wednesday, April 20, at 1 p.m. at the local community center, 600 See-Gwun.

Prior to the program, the homemakers will meet at 9:30 a.m. for a beehive craft session. Irene Weary will give instructions in making waste paper baskets from circular ice cream containers.

Carmela Nelson, 397-4914, has details.

ORT to hold auction

Cypress Chapter of Women's American ORT (Organization for Rehabilitation Training) will hold an auction Saturday, April 16, at Carpenter's Union Hall, 1614 White St., Des Plaines. Admission is $2.

There will be a preview at 7:30 p.m. with the auction starting at 8:30. Charlene Ohren, 297-6855, has more information.

This event will aid the ORT program which helps older and senior citizens update and improve their skills so they may enter the job career world.

ESA leadership conference

Woodfield Area Council of Epsilon Sigma Alpha will participate in the Northern District leadership conference of Illinois State Council being held Saturday, April 16, at the Glen Ellyn Holiday Inn.

Theme for the day-long conference, which begins with coffee hour and registration at 9 a.m., is "ESA in Depth." The conference will conclude at 4 p.m.

There is no registration fee, but lunch is $6.

ISC officers and past state presidents will present the major portion of the day's agenda. Dorothy Latko, Hoffman Estates, ISC Northern District coordinator, will moderate a forum.

Guest speakers include two representatives of St. Jude Children's Research Hospital, an ESA philanthropy.

Women interested in attending may contact Mrs. Latko, 885-4339.

Adjusting pants pattern

pre-test each piece of fabric. All fabrics react differently, and it's better to take a few extra minutes of time than to ruin a piece.

Dear Eunice Farmer: My teen-aged daughter wants me to make her a pair of the new drawstring pants. Do I need to buy a new pattern or can I adjust the one I have been using? —Mrs. S. T.

Dear Mrs. S. T.: I have checked into some of the ready-made pants and found several variations of them.

Some are made with a little heading extending above the draw-string (such as the headings we use for curtains, only much smaller). For this type, allow enough fabric to extend above the waistline and double down to form the casing.

If the pants are to be very full and without a zipper, cut them straight up from the hips. This gives you more room for the gathers and eliminates any darts in the pants. Insert the drawstring and simply pull up the gathers to fit. (Obviously, you would need a very thin waist to wear this extra bulk successfully.)

I have also seen these pants with a zipper and not so much fullness. In this case, simply eliminate the darts and add slightly more to the side seams.

There also are drawstring shorts and skirts based on the same principle as the pants. They also eliminate elaborate fitting and are perfect for summer cottons.

Weddings

Beverly Cook– John Griswold

Beverly Marie Cook, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William F. Cook of Arlington Heights, and John Warner Griswold were married March 19 at 5:30 p.m. in the home of Beverly's twin sister, Mrs. Steven Hess in Sparks, Nev. John's parents are Mr. and Mrs. John Griswold, Elko, Nev.

The bride wore an off-white, full-length gown with pleated jacket. She chose Doreen Schumann, Palatine, as her maid of honor. Fred Leeds of Reno, Nev., served John as best man.

District Court Judge R. L. Torvinen closed the ceremony with an Indian prayer customarily performed in tribal marriage rites. Twenty guests then participated in a family reception at the Wagon Wheel Restaurant in Reno.

The newlyweds, who traveled to Mexico for a two-week honeymoon, will reside in Reno. Beverly, a 1969 graduate of Prospect High and 1973 graduate of Western Illinois University, was formerly employed at Motorola in Schaumburg. John is a graduate of the University of Arizona at Tempe.

Parent-child group to meet

An orientation program for those interested in examining relationships between parents and children are invited to meet with the Rev. and Mrs. Orest Kulick Friday from 7 to 8:30 p.m. at 755 Benton St., Palatine.

They will be conducting a parent study group based on psychological principles developed by Dr. Alfred Adler, a disciple of Sigmund Freud.

After the free orientation, those who wish to continue the study may sign up for a 10-week period, meeting Fridays from 7 to 8:30 through June 24. For these sessions a book must be purchased.

THE COURSE INCLUDES the concepts of child-rearing, principles of encouragement, action not words, taking time for training, and understanding the child's goals.

The Rev. Mr. Kulick is pastor of St. Andrews Ukranian Orthodox Church, Addison, and is therapist for the Greater Lawn Mental Health Clinic, Chicago. His wife, Maria, is a state certified counselor specializing in early childhood development.

Further information on the course may be obtained from Ms. Kulick at 636-7482 after 4 p.m.

They're planning weddings

Skrabacz-D'Amico

Mr. and Mrs. Carl Skrabacz of Schaumburg announce the engagement of their daughter, Denise Mary, to Michael Alfred, son of Mr. and Mrs. Alfred R. D'Amico Jr., Chicago. A May wedding is planned.

Denise is a 1974 graduate of Schaumburg High School. She is presently attending Northeastern Illinois University, Chicago. Mike is employed by Allstate, Press, Inc., of Schaumburg.

Holley-Anderson

A late May wedding is planned by Teresa Holley of Arlington Heights and Mark Anderson of Evanston. Their engagement and approaching marriage are announced by Teri's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Holley.

She is a '74 graduate of Arlington High School, attended Eastern Illinois University for two years and is now a secretary on that campus.

Mark, son of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Anderson, is a senior at the university.

Schroeder-Fadel

Kathy I. Schroeder will be a June bride. Her engagement and approaching marriage to Evan J. Fadel, son of Dr. and Mrs. Gene Fadel, Salem, Ore., are announced by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Schroeder, Buffalo Grove.

A '74 graduate of Wheeling High, Kathy and her fiance, a graduate of Salem Christian Academy, are both traveling with a singing group, The Agape Players.

Goossens-Komerska

The engagement of Michelle Rae Goossens to Glenn Joseph Komerska, son of Mr. and Mrs. Marlin Siemons of Schaumburg, is announced by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Goossens of Hanover Park.

Their wedding plans are for November.

Both Michelle and Glenn graduated from Schaumburg High School, she is '74 and he is '73. Michelle is now a waitress at William Flaggs Restaurant, Schaumburg, and her fiance works for Chem-Lawn, Arlington Heights.

Reitz-Fournier

Mr. and Mrs. Peter Reitz of Elk Grove Village announce the engagement of their daughter, Pamela, to Mark Fournier. Mark is the son of former Elk Grove residents, Mr. and Mrs. Ronald Fournier, now of Chicago.

The engaged couple both graduated from Elk Grove High School, Pam in '76 and Mark in '74. He now attends Greer Tech, Norridge, and also works for Automatic Switch, Des Plaines. Pam is employed by Galaxy Carpet Mills, Elk Grove.

They plan a September '78 wedding.

Watson-Hartmann

A Mount Prospect couple, Jane Watson and William Hartmann, are engaged and planning a September wedding. Announcement of their engagement comes from Jane's parents, the Rev. and Mrs. Nolan Watson.

William is the son of Mr. and Mrs. William A. Hartmann.

Jane and William both graduated from Prospect High School. She now attends Valparaiso University and will graduate in May. William, a Valparaiso graduate, works for Underwriters Laboratories in Northbrook.

Down's Syndrome meeting planned

Parents of children with Down's Syndrome and other interested persons are invited to attend the quarterly meeting of the National Association for Down's Syndrome (NADS), an organization that encompasses Chicago and the surrounding suburbs.

The meeting takes place Friday at 8 p.m. in the Buckingham Room of the Pick Congress Hotel, Chicago.

Dr. George Smith, author of "Down's Anomaly" and internationally recognized authority on Down's Syndrome, will discuss new developments in research with a panel of professionals. His co-author, Canadian geneticist, J. M. Berg, will also participate.

Series explores women's many roles

Pat Taylor, executive director of the North Shore Senior Center, will be featured in the Oakton College series on "The Many and Varied Roles of Women" Thursday afternoon on the campus in Morton Grove.

Ms. Taylor will discuss her many roles in merchandising, public relations, volunteer positions and now innovator of programs for the aging.

The program will be held from 1 to 3 p.m. in Building 3, Room 308. Admission is free.

Featuring women from different walks of life, this speaker's series explores the many ways which women have found meaning and fulfillment.

Further information on all Oakton women's programs is available at 967-5120 ext. 350.

Critics awards: unwise journalism

"The Television Critics Circle Awards" tonight is a travesty of what television criticism and coverage is all about.

At least 200 of this country's television critics will become performers in their own right with a program of their own, all open to the criticism they spurt forth.

Television critics should not allow their own work to become part of a prime-time show that entertains just like Fonzie and the Oscars.

TELEVISION critics should not be on television in a program of their own that fills network time and sells commercials. They should not be patting the networks, public television and other television programmers on the back in a public spectacle for their relatively few good efforts during the past year.

The live two-hour show, meant to honor the past year's television achievements and even nonachievements, will set television criticism back a good few years.

Only in recent years has the job of television coverage and criticism been looked upon by newspapers and the public as important.

After all, we are told that people spend more time watching television than they do sleeping, eating, educating themselves or working.

TELEVISION IS influencing the way we think, act and live, and because it is an important force in our lives, it cannot be ignored.

So, television writers must take their job seriously and approach it like any other newsbeat. The television writer must report, analyze and criticize the medium from every angle that would be meaningful to his audience.

The television critics must maintain an objectivity and a sense of fair, honest evaluation in his work. How can that be done when television critics are boastfully highlighting their own favorite and not-so-favorite shows on the network's home ground?

David Susskind, a brilliant television producer of specials like "Eleanor and Franklin: The White House Years" and "Harry Truman, Plain Speaking," is producing the awards show, which airs at 8 p.m. on Channel 2.

Beverly Sills and Steve Lawrence will host "The Television Critics Circle Awards" and roll call of glamorous television stars will do the honors as presenters of 19 award categories.

SUSSKIND SAID he never has done or wanted to produce an awards show until now. "I respect the Tony Awards but I find the Academy Awards down right embarrassing. There is something silly and self-serving about them," he said.

"Television, critics have no ax to grind on the air, They are merely analyzing in this show and they're professionally equipped to do so," Susskind said.

There will only be 19 awards given out as opposed to 67 awards during the Oscars show, which makes it less of a circus, he said. Television critics are not members of the television profession, so the show is not self-serving.

BUT, THE very idea of the show jeopardizes the distinct difference between a television critic's journalistic obligations and the patronizing of his sources and subjects.

It is not good journalism and it is not wise journalism.

Susskind said the idea for the television critics awards show was born this January when the Emmy Awards telecast, set for May 15 on NBC, seemed threatened by a dispute between the New York and Hollywood chapters of the National Academy of Television Arts and Sciences.

Beverly Sills

But, the television industry, just like the movie industry, should be patting itself on the back. The writers, whose job it is to inform the public, should not be filling those shoes.

THE NOMINEES for each of the 19 categories in tonight's award show are predictable. Programs like "Belle of Amherst" and "Eleanor and Franklin: The White House Years" seem proper entries for achievement in drama.

Most people would agree that "M*A*S*H" is a good series, that the summer Olympics was a sports information achievement and that "Roots" could make it as program of the year. They could even guess that shows like "Evel Knievel's Death Defiers," "Ball Four," "Mr. T and Tina," "The Big Party" on NBC's Big Event and "The Gong Show" could rate as nominees for program nonachievement.

It would all be more appropriate coming from the television industry. Let the critics' reviews and criticisms speak for themselves. Why make a spectacle of an important profession that's struggling to obtain some dignity?

Watson outlasts Nicklaus to win Masters tourney

AUGUSTA, Ga. — Ending any doubts about his ability to withstand pressure, Tom Watson survived a showdown with golf's most feared competitor, Jack Nicklaus, and won the Masters golf tournament Sunday by two strokes.

Watson, a 27-year-old who has attracted an unfortunate reputation for wilting in the stretch, sank a 15-foot birdie putt at the 17th hole to earn the $40,000 first prize and the green jacket awarded to the winner of this tradition-rich southern festival.

His final round score, a 5-under-par 67, gave him a total of 276 for 72 holes, 12 under par, and made him the youngest Masters champion since Nicklaus began dominating this tournament in the 1960's.

Nicklaus, a five-time winner here, gave it a superb run. He shot the best round of the tournament, 66. It just simply was not enough.

Three strokes behind at the start of the day, Nicklaus finally caught Watson at the 14th hole when Watson three-putted from 50 feet below the cup on the humpback green.

Playing in successive twosomes at the tail end of the field, first Nicklaus, then Watson birdied the 15th hole and parred the 16th.

At 17, a 400-yard par-4 where Arnold Palmer hit the crucial shots that enabled him to win two of his four Masters titles, Nicklaus barely missed his try for a birdie. Then Watson came along behind him, and made his.

Watson got some breathing room when Nicklaus, who heard the crowd's roar for the birdie as he walked down the 18th fairway, dumped his approach shot at the final hole into a bunker and made a bogey.

But Watson did not really need it. He made a routine par on the final hole.

Nicklaus, a Masters runnerup for the third time, finished at 10-under-par 278.

Rik Massengale, who also made a game run at Watson before fading on the back nine, and his former University of Texas teammate, Tom Kite, shared third place with 280 totals. Massengale, one of the leaders of the tour's Bible study group and winner earlier this year of the Bob Hope Desert Classic, had a 70 Sunday and Kite had a 67 which included seven birdies.

Hale Irwin, the 1974 U.S. Open champion, was next at 68-282. Lou Graham the 1975 Open winner, tied at 284 with Australian David Graham following identical rounds of 69.

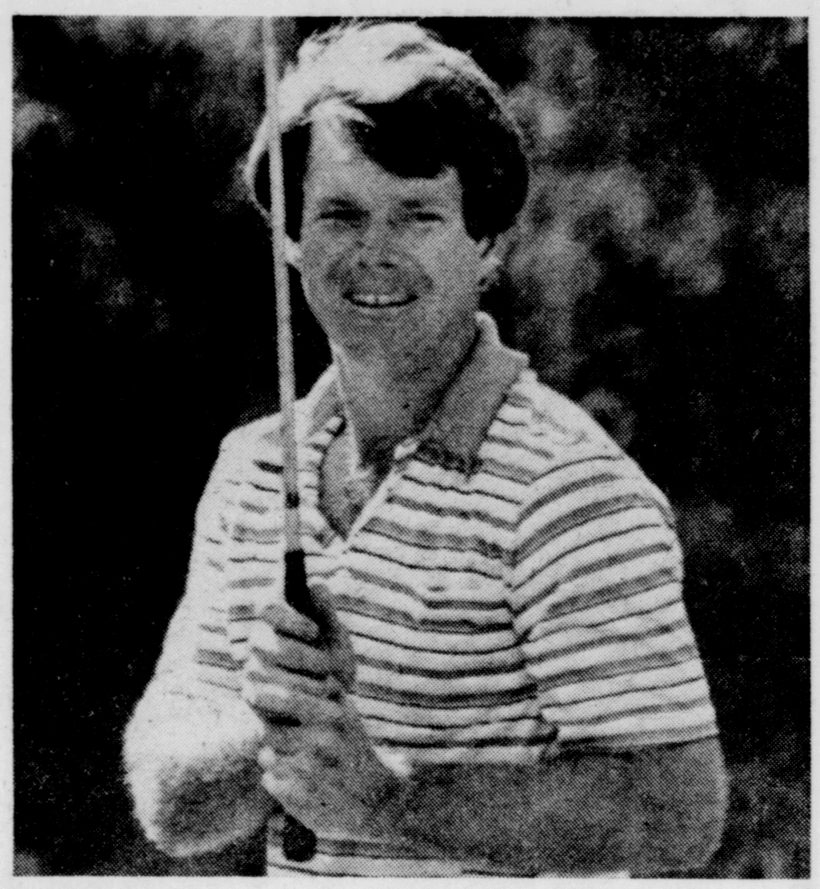
Disheartened Ben Crenshaw, who shared the third-round lead with Watson, ballooned to a horrendous 76 and was in a group of six players at 285. That group also included Ray Floyd, the record-tying winner of this tournament last year, Hubert Green, Don January, Gene Littler and John Schlee.

Crenshaw did not make a birdie until the 15th hole and by then it was too little, too late. He made double-bogey at the short 12th, dumping his tee shot into water, and even his normally sure putting touch deserted him when he three-putted from 15 feet at the 13th after reaching the green of the par-5 hole in two shots.

Paired with Nicklaus in the next-to-last group, Crenshaw had said before starting he anticipated the round would be "half fun and half work." It turned out to be all work and the famed Crenshaw smile was not seen.

Crenshaw dropped out of contention early, bogeying the second and third holes, and after that it was a three-man race among Watson, Massengale and Nicklaus, with Kite struggling vainly to make up distant ground.

Watson, the 1975 British Open champion and winner of four U.S. tour titles, took charge to become this year's top money winner now with $175,185 and winner of more than $700,000 in a six-year career.



ELEMENTARY. Tom Watson shows his pleasure over a putt en route to a championship performance at the 1977 Masters golf tournament.

LADIES DAY. Waiting for the action to begin, these Cub fans seem like they'd rather be at the dining room table for Easter dinner. It's a good thing they hung around long enough to see Ivan DeJesus' three-run homer as Cubs won 5-2 Sunday.

Cubs outmuscle New York, 5-2, on DeJesus HR

by ART MUGALIAN

Where did Ivan DeJesus get the idea he was the Cubs' power man?

Not from manager Herman Franks, that's for sure.

"I didn't think DeJesus was this strong," said Franks after his wiry, 175-pound shortstop belted a three-run homer off New York lefty John Matlack to give the Cubs their first win of 1977, a 5-2 decision over the Mets Sunday at Wrigley Field.

IT WAS DeJESUS' first major league home run and, coupled with a long sacrifice fly in the third, gave the 24-year-old native Puerto Rican as many RBIs in one game as he had scratched together in 73 games with the Dodgers over the past three seasons.

"Look at DeJesus, look at those legs, he's really stacked," said Franks who was rather enjoying his first managerial success since 1968 when he guided the Giants to second place.

Credit for the victory went to right-hander Rick Reuschel, who put an end to the Cubs' two-game losing streak and became the team's first Stopper. But Bruce Sutter, making his third straight relief appearance, got the save with an excellent job of fire-manship.

Called on with the tying runs aboard for the Mets and just one out in the seventh, Sutter proceeded to mow down the opposition on a yield of just one hit the rest of the way, a bloop single.

By all rights, the New Yorkers should have made it three in a row over the Cubs. Matlack, 17-10 a year ago and always rough on Chicago, was cruising along with a 2-1 lead on a pair of titanic homers by Ed Kranepool, but a wind-blown pop-up changed the plans.

WITH TWO OUTS in the bottom of the fifth, Manny Trillo sliced a single to right field and Reuschel followed with a pop fly that fell behind backpedalling second baseman Felix Millan for a fluke it, sending Trillo to third.

DeJesus, the Cub leadoff hitter, was next. Matlack fed him a fat one and DeJesus put it on a line into the bleacher seats in left-center, aided by a 20 mph wind.

"The wind took it," explained DeJesus after the game. "Nah, I'm no home run hitter."

DeJESUS HANDLED five more chances flawlessly in the field Sunday, which also perked Franks' spirits.

"Did you see that play he made going into the hole on Saturday?" the manager asked. "That was some play. And the kid (Steve) Ontiveros can really play third, can't he?"

Ontiveros, who was 0-4 while lining out twice, made an excellent play in the ninth inning Sunday, taking a hit away from Roy Staiger on a chopper down the third base line.

The Cubs got an insurance run for Sutter in the eighth when Larry Bittner singled and came home on a line double in the power alley by Bobby Murcer. That run was at the expense of Met reliever Bob Myrick who replaced Matlack in the seventh.

REUSCHEL THREW 107 pitches in 6-1/3 innings before tiring on the unseasonably warm 82-degree afternoon. In the seventh, Bud Harrelson reached on an error and Reuschel walked pinch-hitter Bruce Boisclair before Franks called for help.

"I probably could have gone another inning," said Reuschel, "but I was getting tired and it's probably a good thing they took me out. We've got fresh guys in the bullpen and it was my first game of the year."

Kranepool, the last original Met, homered into Sheffield Ave. and into the center field bleachers before Reuschel finally retired him on a long drive to center field that the Cubs turned into a double play when Kingman tried to tag up from first base.

Bulls breeze to win at Buffalo

BUFFALO, N.Y. — Artis Gilmore and Wilbur Holland each scored 16 points Sunday as seven Chicago players scored in double figures to give the Bulls a 120-99 victory over the Buffalo Braves

It was Chicago's 20th win in its last 24 games.

Rookie Scott May had 15, Micky Johnson and Tom Boerwinkle 14 each and Phil Hicks and Tom Kropp 12 apiece for Chicago.

THE BRAVES, suffering their 52nd loss in their seventh NBA campaign, were paced by Adrian Dantley's 32 points. Dantley's 12th 30-plus game gave him 1,564 points for the season and made him the first rookie since 1971-72 to wind up with a 20-point average.

Guard Randy Smith, in his option year and playing perhaps his final game for Buffalo, added 17.

Richie Powers, a non-union official, and Dick Schaper, a high school basketball coach at Hutch-Tech in Buffalo, handled the game after NBA referees went on strike this morning. Schaper replaced Hubert Evans.

IN OTHER NBA regular season finales:

Coach Red Holzman and veteran star Bill Bradley closed out their NBA careers on a winning note as the New York Knicks clipped the playoff-bound Detroit Pistons 144-126.

The victory was the 10th in the last 13 for the Knicks, ending Holzman's 10 years as Knicks coach with 607 victories and two league titles. Only Red Auerbach with the Boston Celtics had more wins in an NBA coaching career.

Holzman will serve as a consultant with new coach Willis Reed. The Knicks finished the season 40-42 and out of the playoffs.

GUARD PHIL Chenier scored 28 points and ignited a third period rally to lead the Washington Bullets to a 131-121 victory over the Philadelphia 76ers.

Mitch Kupchak added 23 points, Elvin Hayes 21, and Tom Henderson 19, for the Bullets, who play Cleveland Wednesday night in the best-of-three first round of the playoffs. Julius "Dr. J" Erving led the 76ers with 31 points.

JO JO WHITE and Sidney Wicks scored six points each in a 17-2 fourth quarter spurt that carried the Boston Celtics to an 115-105 victory over the Cleveland Cavaliers.

The victory assured the Celtics of meeting San Antonio Tuesday night in a best-of-three preliminary series. If San Antonio were to lose later Sunday night at Milwaukee, the first game would be at Boston. If the Spurs won, the first game would be in San Antonio.

Kareem Aboul-Jabbar scored 14 of his game-high 30 points in the final period Sunday, leading the Los Angeles Lakers to a 113-104 win over the Seattle SuperSonics.

BACK IN TIME, New York baserunner Lee Mazzilli beats a throw from Cub pitcher Rick Reuschel to first baseman Larry Biittner in fifth inning of Cubs' 5-2 victory Sunday at Wrigley Field. Reuschel was keeping a good eye on speedy Met rookie, but Mazzilli stole second anyway.

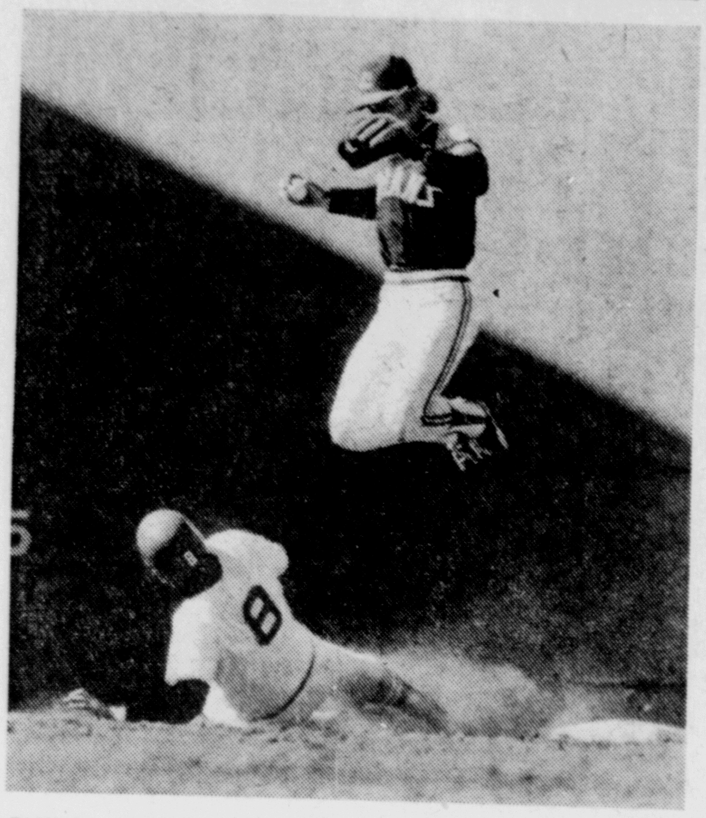
TORONTO — Third baseman Dave McKay, a native Canadian, drove in two runs Sunday to lead the Toronto Blue Jays to a 3-1 victory over the Chicago White Sox.

The Blue Jays scored twice in the second inning on run-scoring singles by Gary Woods and McKay to take a 2-1 lead. McKay's safety squeeze bunt in the seventh inning scored outfielder John Scott for the Blue Jays' final run.

The White Sox took a 1-0 in the first inning when Toronto pitcher Gary Garvin walked the bases loaded and Jim Spencer drove in a run with a grounder to second baseman Pedro Garcia.

Garvin was credited with his first major league win, going eight innings and allowing fiive hits.

Sports world



FLYING INDIAN. Duane Kuiper of Cleveland goes high in the air to avoid the spikes of Boston's Carl Yastrzemski during a record-breaking 19-9 Indian win Sunday. Kuiper drove in three runs during a 13-run Cleveland rally that, coupled with a six-run burst by the Red Sox in the bottom of the same frame, established the new mark.

NBA officials strike

NEW YORK — National Basketball Association referees Sunday carried out a strike they've threatened for two seasons by pulling an 11th-hour walkout from the last eight regular-season games and the league retaliated by using substitute officials and said its next step could be a lawsuit.

The NBA said it was made aware of the referees' intention to strike at 6 a.m. EST Sunday by the attorney for the National Association of Basketball Referees, which represents 24 of the 26 league officials.

"This morning NABR Counsel Richie Phillips made an ultimatum the league could not accept," said a league statement. "The NBA was threatened with the strike today if the NBA did not offer immediate recognition and begin negotiating with the referees' organization."

Most NBA players said it was extremely unlikely they wouldn't cross the referees' picket lines, but Portland center Bill Walton was reported to be considering honoring the boycott. That would come as good news to the Chicago Bulls, who are paired off against Portland in opening playoff competition this week.

Nastase rallies to beat Connors

LAS VEGAS, Nev. — Ilie Nastase successfully defended his World Champion Tennis Challenge Cup title Sunday, rallying to beat Jimmy Connors 3-6, 7-6, 6-4, 7-5 for the $100,000 winner-take-all prize.

"I wanted to beat Jimmy here on his home court," Nastase said after the match. "I knew I was going to win."

Connors left abruptly and did not talk with reporters.

Connors won five of the first six games in the opening set and it appeared he would go on the capture his 14th straight win without a defeat at the Caesars Palace arena.

But Nastase began to nullify Connors' power with deft placements and shot selections and went on to gather momentum. He used numerous passing and cross court shots in the final three sets.

On other tennis fronts Sunday, Martina Navratilova and Betty Stove defeated Francoise Durr and Virginia Wade, 7-5, 6-3, to win the 1977 Bridgestone Women's Doubles Tennis Tournament and Bjorn Borg defeated Corrado Barazzutti, 6-3, 7-5, 6-0, Sunday to win the $100,000 Monaco World Championship Tennis Tournament.

Montreal faces Blues in NHL playoffs

MONTREAL — The Montreal Canadiens, seeking their 20th Stanley Cup, begin their quarterfinal series Monday night against the St. Louis Blues.

"We have been winning so consistently that any pressures that are around in playoff time can't affect us," said Montreal Coach Scotty Bowman, who led his team to a record 60 wins, only dropping a league low 8 games in the regular 80-game schedule.

"We are not planning on handling the playoffs any differently because our game is scoring. While we might be little more cautious, we won't change our style too much."

The Blues, with the worst record among the 8 surviving playoff clubs, made the playoffs in the dismal Smythe Division.

Other NL quarterfinal pairings starting tonight are all rematches from 1976. The Philadelphia Flyers — who'd rather not — are again meeting the Toronto Maple Leafs, the Boston Bruins — more prepared this time around — again battle the Los Angeles Kings and the New York Islanders — hoping for the same end result — reprise a series with the Buffalo Sabres.

Krantzke wins tennis tourney, dies

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. — Karen Krantzcke, once rated the seventh best women's tennis player in the world, collapsed and died Sunday two hours after she and partner Kym Ruddell won the doubles final of the women's Lionel Cup Tennis Tournament.

Witnesses said Krantzcke, 30, of Sydney, Australia, and New Braunfels, Tex., went jogging after the match and collapsed as she returned to the tennis stadium.

Krantzcke, 6-1, 170 pounds, was rated No. 7 in the world in singles in 1970, but had most of her success as a doubles player.

She was a finalist in the Wimbledon doubles in 1974 playing with Helen Gourlay, who was her opponent Sunday. She won the Australian doubles in 1968, the U.S. Clay Court doubles in 1966 and and also represented Australia in the Federation Cup in 1970 and the Bonne Bell Cup in 1974.

Properantes tops Santa Anita feature

ARCADIA, Calif. — Blocked most of the way, Properantes closed with a rush on the outside Sunday to capture the $150,000 San Juan Capistrano handicap, closing day feature of the Santa Anita meeting.

Jockey Darrel McHargue could not find running room for the four-year-old speedster in the one and three-quarter mile race on the grass until the field of eight came around the final turn.

But once he brought his mount to the outside, he found clear running room to overhaul Top Crowd in the stretch while the heavily favored Caucasus was third and Anne's Pretender finished fourth.

The San Juan Capistrano is the longest major grass course stakes in the United States and the victory stamped Properantes a contender for national honors. He carried 120 pounds to 128 for Caucasus who was seeking his third straight grass win of the meeting.

High school tennis invitationals

Prospect, Arlington claim seconds

Prospect tennis coach Jim Gelhaar has been itching to see what sort of team he had this year.

"We don't have an ounce of varsity experience," he said. "But I think we can make some names for ourselves real fast."

Prospect's young squad finally got to play Saturday, picking up only the third tennis trophy in the school's history with a second place finish in their own invitational.

IN THER weekend tennis action Arlington was nosed out of the Maine South Invite title by New Trier East, Hersey was one-for-three in a triple duel with Glenbrooks North and South and Libertyville and Forest View won the Maine West quad.

Maine East nudged Prospect for the invite championship but Gelhaar still saw several things that encouraged him.

Dave Mallon placed second at first singles, behinid Maine East's veteran Norm Peterson, but Gelhaar remarked, "That was an exciting part of the day for me. Peterson blew (Prospect grad) Danny Hanson right off the court last year and Dave hung in there really well against him."

Prospect got first places from Tim Christiansen at third singles and Paul Shea at fourth singles.

MALLON LATER teamed with Bob Blum to tie for second at second doubles.

Arlington missed the Maine South title by a half-point to New Trier East.

Bob Pionke and Mike Doering picked up Arlington's only championship, whipping Kerry Hall and Rick McNerney of New Trier East 7-6, 6-4 for the first doubles title.

Todd Van Gorp won the second singles consolation and Scott Montgomery lost in the finals of third singles.

FIRST SINGLES player Paul Wei also lost in the finals, bowing to Deerfield's Dave Cowan in three sets.

Hersey managed a 3-2 win over Glenbrook North Saturday but fell by a point to Glenbrook South and were blitzed by Libertyville, 5-0.

First year coach Bill Reinhard is also juggling an inexperienced lineup.

"We have four sophomores (Jim Skully, Kevin Brierty, Chris Duros and Dave Passaglia) and they're all very even," he said.

Reinhtrd is trying to fill the holes below first singles player Jim Huck, a senior.

"I'm not sure who will play singles," Reinhard said, "but Jim is my first singles player. He's a good player but he'll still have a lot of problems because there is so much good competition."

Forest View went unbeaten through three matches of the Maine West quad with the host Warriors finishing 2-1.

The Falcons swept through each opponent by 5-0 margins with Dave O'Donnell, Nick Kekos and Steve Calderone holding down the singles duty.

Maine West won two of three duals, led by Paul Gebhardt at first singles.

Cleveland in record-setting rout over Boston

BOSTON — Buddy Bell and Duane Kuper each drove in three runs with a pair of hits in the eighth inning Sunday to highlight a 13-run rally that carried the Cleveland Indians to a record-setting 19-9 rout of the Boston Red Sox.

With the game tied at 3-3, the Indians sent 17 batters to the plate in the eighth and collected 10 hits, three walks and were gifted by a Red Sox' error. The scoring barrage fell one run short of Cleveland's club record for a single inning set in 1950 against the Philadelphia Athletics.

Boston scored six times in the last half of the inning as the two teams combined to set an American League record of 19 runs in one inning. The old record was 17 set by Detroit and Boston in 1953.

Elsewhere in the American League Kansas City blanked Detroit, Texas edged Baltimore, Milwaukee slipped past New York, California bounced Seattle and Oakland split a pair with Minnesota.

Darrell Porter hit a two-run homer and John Mayberry also drove in two runs Sunday to help the Kansas City Royals complete a season-opening sweep of their three-game series against the Detroit Tigers with a 5-0 victory.

Tom Grieve hit a home run and John Ellis singled in his first run of the season, but the relief pitching of Paul Lindblad was the highlight of the Texas Rangers' third straight victory over the Baltimore Orioles Sunday 3-2.

Sixto Lezcano belted a pair of solo home runs to spoil Don Gullett's pitching debut as a Yankee Sunday and give the Milwaukee Brewers a 2-1 victory over New York.

Joe Rudi drove in five runs with a grand slam homer and a double Sunday to spark the California Angels to a 12-5 rout of the Seattle Mariners and give left-hander Frank Tawana his second win of the season.

Tom Burgmeier snuffed out an Oakland rally in the seventh inning to preserve rookie Paul Thormodsgard's first major league victory Sunday when the Minnesota Twins defeated the A's 7-1 in the second game of a doubleheader.

The A's won the first game 9-6 behind Wayne Gross' three RBI and two more by Dick Allen.

In National League games, San Diego shocked Cincinnati 12-4, Montreal surprised Philadelphia 9-8, San Francisco dumped Los Angeles 8-4, St. Louis edged Pittsburgh 8-7 and Atlanta downed Houston 6-2.

Dave Winfield slammed a pair of two-run doubles to pace a 15-hit attack and rookie Bob Shirley struck out 11 in his major league debut to lead the Padres to a rout of the Reds.

Tony Perez' second homer in two days, a three-run blast in the eighth, gave the Expos a victory over the Phillies. Perez' homer, off loser Gene Garber, followed an infield single by ex-Phillie Dave Cash and a walk to Warren Cromartie.

Towering Ed Halicki scored his fifth straight victory over Los Angeles over a three-season period when he and Randy Moffitt pitched the Giants to a triumph over the Dodgers.

Bake McBride knocked in three runs with a two-run homer and a single and Ken Reitz singled home two more runs to lift the Cardinals over the Pirates. Garry Templeton had three hits, including a triple, scored three times and drove in another run for St. Louis.

Rowland Office and Jerry Royster each collected three hits and Atlanta Braves' right-hander Dick Ruthven fired a seven-hit shutout Sunday to defeat the Houston Astros 6-0 in a game enlivened by a bench-clearing fight on the pitcher's mound.

FLYING INDIAN. Duane Kuiper of Cleveland goes high in the air to avoid the spikes of Boston's Carl Yastrzemski during a record-breaking 19-9 Indian win Sunday. Kuiper drove in three runs during a 13-run Cleveland rally that, coupled with a six-run burst by the Red Sox in the bottom of the same frame, established the new mark.

Tennis headaches build; Illini players complain

"Sometimes it appears as though they (the UI Athletic Association) don't really care whether tennis is continued as a varsity sport. It gets pretty discouraging at times." — Bruce Franks, Illini No. 2 singles.

Small wonder Franks, a Springfield senior with more varsity singles victories than anyone in Illini tennis history, feels disenfranchised by the UI athletic administration.

Little more than 50 miles northwest of Champaign, an enterprising Illinois State tennis squad began its season with an indoor Redbird Special against Bradley and Purdue and played multiple matches for seven straight weekends, including trips to Wisconsin and Alabama, before the Illini even scheduled their first match.

Illinois State, without the "big income" which comes from major college football, is even now winding up a Florida trip featuring seven matches in seven days.

BY CONTRAST the Illini, who saw their aggressive young coach (Bruce Shuman) depart suddenly for California — and no one, least of all recruited Californians Mark Wagner and Jeff Edwards, blame him for that — didn't play their first match until April 1 and will complete their 14-match schedule this month. That leaves a 20-day opening prior to the Big 10 championships in Ann Arbor May 20-22.

Needless to say, Franks and junior Chuck Meurisse, the No. 1 player, expected a great deal more when they were recruited. And so did everyone else.

"When the schedule is reduced from 19 to 14 matches, that's 25 per cent of the schedule," said Franks after the home opener, an 8-1 decision over Notre Dame on makeshift courts inside the UI Armory.

Loren Tate

"I understand the money problems and I know that in a non-revenue sport we can't have everything we would like. But every day we look at those schedules of other Big 10 schools and we see all nine of them had spring trips. I've been here four years and I only got to go south as a sophomore.

"WE DON'T like to lose in the Big 10. Those matches are special. So it kind of shook us when we played at Iowa Saturday. It was our second match and Iowa's 13th. It's no wonder we lost."

Tony Chiricosta, unbeaten in the Big 10 regular season at No. 5 singles as a freshman last year, echoed Franks' sentiments.

"I got wiped out in the first set at Iowa before I realized what was happening. They had already played what was equivalent to our entire season. They were in mid-season form. Imagine an Illini basketball team playing its second game against an Iowa team which had already played 13 games. It was tough to swallow."

Chiricosta, runnerup in the Ohio state high school tournament three times, is a sticky, emotional athlete. He was offered scholarships by Furman, Ohio University and Toledo but chose Illinois because of Shuman. A promise in the recuitment dealt with annual spring excursions to climates which would allow the netters to sharpen their outdoor skills for the conference season.

BOTH THE Illini golf and baseball teams made a southern swing this year but, without Shuman to drum up the money (it had to be accomplished outside the budget) the anticipated trip did not develop.

"We were all pretty discouraged there for awhile," said Chiricosta. "First, Tim Anderson, who was on a full scholarship, left along with Bruce. Then we learned there would be no trip and the schedule was cut from 19 to 14. And now we're told that two campus courts will be rebuilt but not those at Huff Gym where we play.

"We're bouncing back mentally now that we're into the season but there was total apathy for awhile."

INTERIM COACH John Avallone is making the best of a difficult situation. He is "teaching" a squad of players with considerably more competitive tennis background than he has, but he appears to have gained their confidence. He is also in charge of recruiting, with Anderson's vacated scholarship plus one other, even if he isn't certain whether he'll be around in 1978 to lead the team.

"I'm not certain yet whether I'll apply for the job," he says. "I'll just do the best I can with the team this spring and see what happens. I think we have a good team and we can finish among the top five in the conference. The schedule is made so there is nothing we can do about that now."

Baseball begins; Bison, Mustangs picked for titles

Surprise.

It's opening day for the Mid-Suburban League's baseball circuit and amazingly, a full slate of South Division contests will probably get off without a hitch today.

For a sport where one race is a foregone conclusion while the other is a great big question mark, it is only fitting that the uncertain South loop get an early start.

POLLED BY THE Herald just prior to opening day, the MSL coaches were unanimous in picking Buffalo Grove to rule in the North this spring.

These same pilots predicted an up-for-grabs scramble in the South with probably Rolling Meadows emerging on top for a third straight time.

The Mustangs will be idle today but Forest View hosts Prospect this morning and Hoffman Estates will visit Conant while Schaumburg treks to Elk Grove for afternoon tilts.

THE FALCONS are generally conceeded, by both the coaches and the Herald sports staff, to be the ones giving Meadows strongest chase although neither the Hawks nor the Knights can be ruled out of the hunt either.

Coach Al Otto is probably getting the nod from many of his contemporaries on the strength of tradition alone. His club of 1976 which rolled to a 12-6 record and then stopped Arlington in the playoffs is just about all gone.

Otto will have all-conference pick Dennis Drolet to build this pitching staff around along with veteran Steve Stiert and both can be utilized in the outfield as well.

COACH TOM Siedel's Falcons would appear to have more to build on with all-star first baseman Larry Dahl returning along with shortstop Chris Hanson and pitchers Joe Slawinski and Rich Richter (Slawinski will catch this spring). Forest View's aspirations though probably hinge on success of three sophomore's Siedel plans to start.

"We're big, fairly well-balanced and will probably be a decent hitting team," is the way Larry Pohlman assesses his Prospect club. Big Higs — burly Pat Higgins — is back to catch and vet Doug Clark can pitch or play third. First baseman Paul Lundstedt is oneof a host of rookies with a good shot at cracking the lineup.

In the Hoffman camp, coach Gary Kraft can count on winning a certain number of games when premier hurler Ray Gawron is on the hill. The veteran righty led the league in strikeouts last year and posted a 2.56 ERA. Anything after that his club will have to pull together to scrap for.

CONANT COULD be a surprise behind new coach Jim Cozzolino. The Cougars have nine lettermen back led by catcher Jeff Johnson (.389), hurler Rob Totten and shortstop Scott Schafer.

Elk Grove has a top veteran prospect in Tom Curran. He had a miserly 1.66 ERA last year and was one of the top strikeout hurlers with 46 but coach Larry Peddy must build from there.

Mentor Dick Stevens at Schaumburg is also rebuilding although slugger Rick Baker is back and a couple of move-ins will help.

In the North Division opening Wednesday coach Fran Sommers has an outstanding Arlington outfit that would normally figure to retain their title with ease.

BUT THE BISON appear to be simply awesome. Led by three-year all-star shortstop Mike Ledna and versatile junior Mike Marshall, coach Fred Van Iten's bunch has veterans at nearly every position and a five-man mound staff paced by Marshall, tim Prokoff and Phil Czosnyka.

Arlington meanwhile has a solid one-two pitching punch in John Mertins and Doug Harth. Both had ERA's below one last year to lead the league. Hitting will be headed up by Mike Mayerick, at .438 the top MSL returnee from '76, and there are also vets Frank DeSimone and Dan Frase.

FREMD IS TABBED for the third spot behind all-conference outfielder Kerry Field and coach Terry Gellinger will be there if pitching holds up.

Coach Ron DeBolt's Wheeling team will rally around shortstop Rick Heredia, outfielder Bill Knuth and pitcher-third baseman Jim Passolt. For coach Steve Chernicky at Hersey, third-year pitching ace Todd Walker will be joined by vets Curt Wagner, John Isola (moved behind the plate), Bob Hart, Brian Hastings and Joe Pustaera.

Another new helmsman, Jim Kollar at Palatine, could also provide surprises. "We have the nucleus of a fine team here and appear to be strong up the middle," he noted despite the fact that his team had been picked to finish last.

The Pirates have all-star catcher Mike McSweeney back and vets Kevin McKenna and Mark Menke will be throwing to him. Other seniors include Doug Buenzow at first, Bruce Peterson at third and Al Knotek in center.

SIDE-ARMER. Cub starter and winner Rick Reuschel puts all 230 pounds of muscle and determination into this pitch Sunday against the New York Mets at Wrigley Field. Reuschel, 14-12 last season, went 6-1/3 innings to get credit for Cubs' first win.

Harper posts sweep in baseball

The Harper Hawks baseball team evened their record at 5-5 and opened their N4C slate with a doubleheader sweep of Thornton Saturday.

A three-run homer by Scott Green, according to Coach John Eliasik, "a real shot," staked the Hawks to the needed runs in an 8-6 win in the opener.

Buddy Hughes went the distance to get the win.

Harper came from behind in the second game, erasing an 8-3 Thornton lead with a five-run sixth inning and then winning 9-8 with a run in the top of the seventh.

Bob Ray's three-run homer in the first inning was Harper's big hit.

Dave Rochelle picked up the win in relief of starter Dennis Drinan.

Schaumburg Kings plan hockey seasons

The Schaumburg Kings have announced the details of their 1977 spring and summer hockey programs. They are open to all players between the ages of 6-14 (Mite through Bantam) and will consist of two parts. The first will be spring play in which players will participate in 15 games and five practices. The second is a summer clinic designed to develop the basic skills required to play hockey.

In addition to the mite through bantam teams fielded by the Kings, a midget team will enter the Rolling Meadows spring league in a special program for 15-16-year-old players.

The cost per player for the spring league, including game stockings, jerseys and player insurance, is $75. Registration for the spring league will be conducted immediately prior to the players' first practice session at Woodfield Ice-Arena.

The registration times for each group are: Mites (ages 6-8), Tuesday, April 12, 5:30 p.m.; Squirts (ages 9-10), Tuesday, April 12, 6:30 p.m.; Pee-Wee (ages 11-12), Wednesday, April 13, 5:30 p.m.; Bantam (ages 13-14), Wednesday, April 13, 6:30 p.m. Midget registration will be conducted at the same time as bantam registration, although there will be no midget practice at that time.

The summer clinic, which is open to all skaters from 6-14 years of age, will be conducted at the Woodfield Ice-Arena. The registration fee for the clinic is $25 for players who participate in the spring league and $30 to skaters who wish to participate in the summer cliic alone.

Further information concerning these clinics may be obtained by calling the appropriate co-ordinator: Mite and Midget; Joe Benedetto (882-1491); Squirt; Tom Lytle (893-4361): Pee-Wee; Ed Meyer (894-5596): Bantam; Joe Zeller (885-1261).

Second half begins for Braves' Turner

Jim Murray

In the summer of 1975, the owner of Channel 17 in Atlanta had an old familiar show biz problem: The prime time show on the station was bombing. People were laughing in all the wrong places. He couldn't sell space for it.

The show was a situation comedy called the Atlanta Braves. They thought they were doing Hamlet, and they never knew enough to wait for their laughs. The newspaper critics were irritable. They had no sense of humor. They kept pestering the producers to beef up the second act. No one came forward to the footlights to say "These are the jokes, son."

In such cases, if you're a TV executive, you do one of two things: You cancel the show; or you buy the company and do a rewrite.

TED TURNER was the owner of WTCG-TV on which the Atlanta Braves were laying their nightly egg. To him, the Braves were just a summer replacement show to I Love Lucy reruns. It was either the Braves or a gospel hour.

Ted Turner had never been associated with a sport this close to shore before. His specialty was 12-meter yachts, spinnakers and blue-water sailings to Sweden or Hawaii.

The Braves didn't need a commodore as much as they needed an infield. There was nothing wrong with the Braves that a Genoa jib could fix.

Still, television will do anything to improve ratings. So, Ted Turner bought the Braves. But the comedy only got funnier. The Braves dropped to last. Ted Turner dropped a million-and-a-half. Bob Hope should have his writers come up with shticks like that. Milton Berle would have stolen the sight gags they put on.

THE BRAVES had bombed out of three cities before Commodore Turner came aboard. They brought the snake oil show to Atlanta, which had been known as a town that would take a third company road show. They figured this was a town which would buy the old woman-sawed-in-half-trick or buy the a-prize-in-each-and-every-box spiel.

At first, they did. Then they wised up that there wasn't a pea under any of those shells.

Ted Turner started out life with $9 million and his own boat. They figured if Teddy wanted a ball club instead of a set of trains, why, the Braves had pretty uniforms. Besides when you own three TV stations and a bunch of radio stations and several states worth of billboards, you've got to put the money someplace.

Rookie owners are supposed to be seen and not heard. They're not supposed to make waves any more than rookies anywhere else. Umpires won't take any guff from rooks. The veterans make them carry the bats and sit in the back of the team bus and shower later than everybody else.

ROOKIE OWNERS are not supposed to be able to hit the major league curveball, either, even though served up by the front offices of the league. So, when this fresh rookie opened his career by spiriting away Andy Messersmith, a 20-game pitcher, from Walter O'Malley, the venerable oligarch of the grand old game, you would have thought he spiked Babe Ruth.

When he stole Gary Matthews from the Giants, the commissioner of all baseball stepped in to chastise this fresh rook. He suspended him for a year. Ted Turner became the first unfrocked owner in the history of baseball. Only the 1919 Black Sox got harsher punishment.

The king-without-a-country, the owner-without-a-team, Commodore R. E. Turner III came down here to this graceful little town and ex-Confederate prison site the other day to address us ink-stained wretches of the National Assn. of Sportscasters and Sportswriters on what it's like to be a general-without-a-horse.

He didn't look too much like a man about to rent his graments, put ashes in his hair or ask absolution from Walter O'Malley. He did sound like a guy who wishes he'd bought into a fancy house with a piano player in New Orleans, instead of the Atlanta Braves.

HE DID ALLOW as how the grand old game "ought to allow a rookie manager a few mistakes." After all, field managers are tolerant of rookies who miss the cutoff man or the bunt single, occassionally. "There aren't any books on 'How To Be An Owner,' " he complained.

He doesn't look like a man who would read one if there were one. Ted Turner has sailed in rougher waters than these, he implied.

When he got into baseball, Ted Turner didn't know the infield-fly rule, who played third in the Tinker-to-Evers-to-Chance combination or how Pie Traynor got his nickname. He just thought the Braves were going to be kind of like the Gomer Pyle Show. He didn't think the game was as humorless as the commissioner looked.

He found out. He says his famous "tempering" with Gary Matthews was just a bit of "cocktail party conversation." He learned from that, he said. He learned "never take more than five drinks at a baseball cocktail party."

HE FOUND THE re-entry draft of players "demeaning," he said. He explained: "Here are 12 guys sitting gravely around a room with their hats in their hands grateful for a chance to bargain with guys they already owned." He backhanded Old Guard owners like the Cubs' Phil Wrigley. "They sit around and complain bitterly about the young kids asking for all that money. I told him, 'Hell, they'll have a lot more fun with it than you old sour pusses.' "

He got philosophical: "Life is a game everybody loses. But, at halftime, you can be in pretty good shape if you play it right."

For Ted Turner, the second half is about to begin. He's 38. The Braves aren't any better. Their ratings aren't any higher. But the baffling fabric of baseball has, as usual, wound itself another weave of intrigue and idiocy.

When it comes time to negotiate for Braves' sit-com, if baseball owner Ted Turner cannot take part in the affairs of the team, can he thus not deal with TV owner Ted Turner?

Or, if TV owner Turner wants to talk terms with the baseball team for television rights, does he wear a false moustache and dark eyeglasses and register under an assumed name? Or should the commissioner just resolve the whole knotty problem and just ban the Atlanta Braves for a year instead?

Playoff battles settle Schaumburg cage titles

The Schaumburg Athletic Assn. recently wound up its 1977 basketball program with four post-season games to determine the league champions.

The ABA Minor League East Division championship went to the Floridians as they downed the Pros in a 12-8 come-from-behind victory. Both teams had finished regular season play with identical 9-1 records.

Sonny Wilkalis led the scoring for the Floridians with six points, while Matt Johnson knocked in four and Jim Vogt, two.

Tallying for the Pros were Mark Mollenkopf with three points, Dan Granias and Kevin Stanger, two each and John Masurek, one.

The West Division champion Spurs, also 9-1 on the season, then cooled off the hot Floridians 13-9 to take the league title.

Mike Schubeck registered six points for the winners and Nick Valente added three. Chris Hegy and Rick Lima contributed two each.

Johnson tossed in four for the Floridians, Vogt and Paul Nowak added two apiece and Bill Morris, one.

The ABA Major League championship game pitted the Braves against the Rockets in the battle of the undefeated. The combination of aggressive defense and scoring depth which characterized the Rockets' play all season proved too much for the Braves as they went down to defeat 42-20.

Nick Favia paced the Rockets with 18 points and Jeff Olsen knocked in eight. Bob Carzoli and Gary Prybell each scored six and Kevin Lindsey, four.

Greg Charvat and John Everitt were held to six points apiece for the Braves, while Keith Kennedy and Mike Ptak contributed two field goals each.

The NBA East Division champion Celtics kept their unblemished record intact as they grabbed the league title with a 40-32 win over the Lakers who had topped the west at 8-2.

NBA top scorer Andy Mazza led the Celtics' scoring with 22 points. greg Mrozinski tallied 10. Mike Stevens, four and Steve D'Ambrosio and Ron Kubinski, two each.

Scott Dyokas and Keith Kusek each put 11 on the board for the Lakers and John Marshall added 10.

Awards will be presented at the annual basketball banquet April 21 at 6:30 p.m. in the Conant High School cafeteria, 700 East Cougar Trail, Hoffman Estates.

Cloninger's big day

Atlanta pitcher Tony Cloninger had perhaps the best day with a bat that any pitcher ever had when on July 3, 1966, the slugging righthanded hurler cracked a pair of grandslammers and ripped an RBI double. Cloninger is the only National League player to hit two grand slam homers in one game.

Arlington to feature new racing strip by opening

Arlington Park's racing surface, the subject of criticism by horsemen and track patrons, will be getting a face lift.

Bill Thayer Jr., vice president and general manager, announced that the plant will receive a new racing strip in time for the June 6 opening.

Joe Morrow, track superintendent at Hialeah for more than two decades and the man who installed the present track at Arlington in 1965, will be in charge of the project and will remain at Arlington as track superintendent for the entire season "to make sure everything stays exactly right."

THE RESURFACING involves the entire mile and an eighth main dirt course and the mile Equipioise chute over which the present world record of 1:32 1/5 was set in 1968 by Dr. Fager in the Washington Park Handicap.

Morrow, a native of Birmingham, Ala., first went to work at Hialeah as a landscaper in 1931 and later was recommended for the track superintendent's position by veteran horseman, Fred Hooper. Morrow rebuilt the Hialeah track in 1941 and was responsible for it and the entire landscaping operatioin there until 1961.

In 1965, he undertook the rebuilding of the track at Arlington, and did such a fine job, Buckpasser was able to crack the world record for a mile over it a year later. That was 1966 and Morrow was busy installing Arlington's training track, as well as maintaining the main course.

"Once I walk around a race track, it's my baby," Morrow commented after flying in from Florida to begin his new task. "Mr. Thayer has given me all the equipment and help I need, and we'll begin on it seven days a week until it is ready for horses.

"THE BOTTOM is the most important thing, then the cushion, and then moisture. Right now we have to get a good mixture of clay and soil, compact it, and then cut out a cushion. The mixture has to be exactly right and completely uniform or the depth will vary and adding moisture will make the track spotty.

"We also will be establishing permanent grades, so the track is even from the rail to the top of the hogback, and putting in additional drainage, particularly in those areas where the starting gate enters and leaves the track.

"Once the track is in and the cushion is the way the horsemen want it, we'll still have to add sand occasionally because the sand that's in it will get rounder and more compact as the track is used.

"The secret to a good track, though, is moisture. You have to keep it moist to hold the bottom and maintain speed. If the moisture is allowed to go out of the track, it will fluff and puff out and the horses will begin burning themselves.

"YOU HAVE TO watch the sprinkler trucks, too. The wheels pack down the base until you have paths. A horse can get on one of those paths and fly all the way home. We'll use a heavier harrow at that point in the track to solve that problem."

Morrow also intends to seal the track every iight to keep the wind from blowing away the cushion and promote fast drainage if it rains.

The mammoth job is under way with the movement and mixing of more than a million pounds of soil.

Oswald: "Confucius might have said, 'He who plays too fast to trick one is likely to lose both time and money.' "

Jim: "In other words, you should plan your play at trick one. If you do plan it properly you can usually play rapidly from then on and make a lot of close hands."

Oswald: "South wasted no time at all in winning the heart lead with dummy's queen and leading a club to his ten. West took the queen and was mean enough to abandon hearts and lead the queen of diamonds."

Jim: "Now, South was ready to think, but all thinking from this point on was going to be a waste of time. He did duck the diamond in both hands, but West continued that suit."

Oswald: "South won in his hand and led his jack of clubs, but West put the ace right on that jack and led his last diamond."

Jim: "Ten minutes later South had been set one trick. Just five seconds thought at trick one, South would have won the heart in his hand, led the king of clubs and been sure of two club tricks and his contract."

Ask Andy

Burning gases cooled to form Earth surface

Andy sends the Encyclopaedia Britannica's 1977 Yearbook of Science and the Future to Benjamin Manning, 15, of Visalia, Calif., for his question:

HOW WAS THE EARTH FORMED?

This place we call home is a giant ball that measures about 8,000 miles through and about 25,000 miles around. It is moving around a bright star we call our sun, and moving with it are other planets. About three-quarters of its surface is covered with water. The highest mountain is about five and a half miles, and the deepest spot in the ocean is about seven miles.

No one knows exactly when the earth was formed or how. There are many scientific theories, including the most accepted one that says our earth probably started as a glowing mass of gases that slowly cooled to liquids and then solids. While the gases were bubbling, the heavy metals were most likely settling toward the center of the ball.

Earth's formation probably came about as the gas burned and escaped to form an atmosphere while the molten rocks cooled and formed a crust. The crust was most likely broken and rebroken many times as rocks cooled, but slowly it became more stable and more thick.

As the atmosphere cooled, water vapor from the gases condensed and fell as rain on the cooling rocks. In time, water was collected in low places and oceans were formed. In the earth's early days, it was most likely covered with bare rocks. Volcanos probably spouted great lava flows and the seas were most likely hot.

As the earth continued to cool, the crust grew thicker. We believe the crust is about 40 miles thick, covering a layer of denser, solid rock about 1,700 miles deep. This layer is called the mantle. And below that is a zone about 1,400 miles deep, called the outer core, of hot, molten rock under tremendous pressure. Scientists believe that at the earth's inner core is a solid ball about 1,600 miles across composed of iron and nickel and other metals. The inner ball and the molten zone together make up the core of earth.

The cooling earth caused warping and buckling of the crust. Then some of the lighter weight rocks that had been sunken were pushed upward. The Appalachians and the Rockies were probably formed this way, rising from ancient sea bottoms.

Earthquakes that happen in various parts of the world these days tell us much about what the inside of earth is like. We can chart the kinds of earthquake waves and the time it takes for them to go from one point to another.

Andy sends a Denoyer-Geppert World Globe to Shelly Milne, 11, of Bountiful, Utah, for her question:

WHAT CAUSES HICCUPS?

We hiccup when there is a spasm or involuntary movement of the diaphragm, the muscular partition that separates the abdominal cavity from the chest cavity. That's what happens — but we don't know why it happens.

The hiccup spasm causes us to draw in air, or inspire. The opening between the vocal cords is shut off suddenly, producing the "hic." Control of the diaphragm is by the right and left phrenic nerves, but we don't know why they send impulses to produce the apparently useless action.

The hiccup spasm series usually ends as mysteriously and as fast as it started.

Do you have a question to Ask Andy? Send it on a post card with your name, age and complete address to Ask Andy in care of The Herald, P.O. Box 280, Arlington Heights, Ill. 60006. Entries are open to boys and girls 7 to 17.

GUIDE FOR A PART-TIME JOB

When looking for a part-time job don't settle for second best. Insist that your employer provide the following: PAY $3.12 PH to start with guaranteed periodic raises CLOTHING He must buy your work clothing and replace them when worn out or damaged EDUCATION Send you to school and pay all cost for all courses that pertain to your job MEDICAL CARE If you are injured on the job, pay all medical expenses and keep you on full-time payroll until you are well and compensate you for life if you incur a serious injury INSURANCE Provide full time life insurance on you for $20,000 at a cost to you of only $3.40 per month RETIREMENT He must provide a retirement plan that will pay you at least $100 per month at age 60 after you have worked only 20 years TRAINING Admit to him that you have no training or experience. You expect him to send you to at least a 16 week school, and while at school pay you full-time wages as well as food, clothing and provide medical and dental service to you. After he has agreed to all the above, tell him that you can only work 16 hours each month and 15 days in the summer.

Do these guide lines seem a bit too much to ask of a prospective employer? We do not think they are. If the above conditions appeal to you, there is in fact one employer who will gladly accept you on these terms should you qualify, the 374th Military Police Company United States Army Reserve. If you are between 17 and 35, a high school senior or a high school graduate we invite you to start a part time career with us. For information call (312) 694-3781, ask for Jim Irvin.

O'Hair leads atheists out of closet

by DANN GIRE

The card on the table says "If you are mean, greedy, selfish, hypocritical and untrustworthy, GO TO CHURCH NEXT SUNDAY. Birds of a feather flock together."

This is one slogan of the 7th Annual National American Atheist Convention meeting Friday, Saturday and Sunday in the Hyatt Regency O'Hare, Rosemont, where more than 200 self-proclaimed nonbelievers gathered to assess their strength in 1977.

Leading the group was Madalyn Murray O'Hair, the controversial lawyer who 14 years ago won the right to ban prayers in Public schools.

At 57, the graying Ms. O'Hair is an energetic, dynamic person concerned with the image of the American atheist and threats organized religion poses to individual freedom.

"ATHEISTS ARE finally coming out of the closet," she said in words that allow no room for dispute. "One out of every four (Americans) is an atheist. We're still pretty much fighting for civil liberties."

The media has added to the surpression of atheists by ridiculing and ignoring them, she said.

"We couldn't get any publicity at all about our convention," she said. "One time we took out a paid advertisement (in a newspaper) and do you know what? They put it on the bottom of the religious page. Who ever reads that?"

Ms. O'Hair, American Atheist president, charged that because the media will not deal fairly with the group, "We're having a helluva time getting our message across," she said.

"Oh, I get asked to appear on talk shows, all right. They usually sandwich me between a dancing bear and a reformed alcoholic," she said with a hint of disgust. Sometimes they put me on with Miss Nude America and the governor of Maryland. All the media's interested in is a good show."

BUT THINGS are shaping up for the group, which has landed a contract with a Manhattan television station to air 13 half-hour video-taped programs. She said the programs are designed to give American viewers "a better idea" of what atheism is all about and to make viewers aware of how churches abuse their tax exempt status and become wealthy at the government's expense.

The shows, hosted by Ms. O'Hair, will be shown by the Upper Manhattan Cable Company beginning in May or June. But the show's hostess predicts "ratings trouble."

"I think the Roman Catholic church will have it shut down within three weeks," Ms. O'Hair said, her eyes registering a trace of anger. "Then we have to go in and fight to see that our contract is fulfilled. I expect a lot of trouble. You can't say that churches lie to their congregations and get away with it."

Group members were shown the pilot broadcast of the series Saturday afternoon, which features Ms. O'Hair charging churches are in some cases becoming rich by buying up profit-making businesses and assigning tax-exempt status as a church-related venture.

IN THE SHOW, she also charges organized religion often restricts freedom of thought and consequently is being deserted by congregation members "finally coming to their senses."

Ms. O'Hair hails atheism as "the most exciting and liberating of all philosophies" which features "true liberation of the mind." She says in the broadcast that further programs prepared by the atheist group "will tell of other crimes of the church. We'll let it all hang out."

The show points out that most of the nation's founding fathers and leaders were "free thinkers or atheists" including John Quincy Adams, George Washington, Thomas Jefferson, James Madison, Benjamin Franklin, and Thomas Paine.

Other notable American atheists include Mark Twain, Thomas A. Edison, Albert Einstein, Henry Ford, Florence Nightingale, Jane Addams and Susan B. Anthony.

The founder of the Smithsonian Insitute was an atheist, Ms. O'Hair said, "and every time you take a bit of a sandwich, you are paying homage to an atheist," the Earl of Sandwich.

And was it any coincidence that the 7th annual meeting of the group fell on Easter Weekend?

"Yes, it was coincidence," Ms. O'Hair joked. "We usually get together around Thomas Jefferson's birthday, April 13. That's my birthday, too. We usually have a cake with Happy Birthday to Tom and Madalyn on it."

Price of gas drops in past two weeks

The average price of a gallon of gas has declined in the past two weeks, the latest Chicago Motor Club fuel gauge report shows.

In Chicago and Cook County, the average price of regular gasoline declined seven-tenths of a cent to 63.8 cents. Unleaded gasoline declined by almost half a cent to 68.1 cents, while premium rose fractionally to 70.7 cents from 70.6 two weeks ago.

There are, however, wide price fluctuations for all grades of gasoline, indicating motorists would be wise to shop around for their gas.

Average prices a year ago were 58.5 cents a gallon for regular and 63.9 cents for premium.

Boys' exclusion from rape talk protested

Pupils allege violation of rights

by HOLLY HANSON

A group of Palatine High School students have charged the administration with sexual discrimination and violating student rights because male students were barred from attending a class-related program on rape.

The students have demanded a clarification of their rights to attend presentations related to their class work and their rights to petition administrators about administrative decisions.

Their protests center around what apparently was an administrative decision to prohibit boys enrolled in a family living class in the home economics department from attending a course-related program about rape.

THEY ALSO say administrators refused to accept a petition signed by 122 students and two teachers asking that male students be allowed to attend the program.

The students, led by seniors Bruce Beal, Jenny Jones, Mary Jones and Holly Vogt, will meet Tuesday with Gerald Chapman, assistant to the superintendent. The students said they will take their case to the board of education April 28 if they aren't satisfied with the results of their meeting Tuesday.

The issue has become divided into two areas: whether banning males from the program is a violation of Title IX, federal regulations which prohibit sex discrimination in education, and whether the students' right to petition the administration has been violated.

The presentation was a speech titled "The Violent Crime — Rape" and was made last month by Wanda Weitzorek of the U.S. Dept. of Health, Education and Welfare.

The first part of the controversy centers around whether a discussion of rape as a crime is related to human sexuality. According to Title IX guidelines, students may be separated by sex whenever human sexuality is discussed, said Susan Rivera, state Title IX coordinator.

However, other sources said the program either should have been offered to all students or not offered at all. A second solution might have been to separate the students, but to make one presentation to each group, sources said.

"I THINK you're obligated to offer it to both boys and girls," said Beverly Watts, official of the Office of Civil Rights. "It depends on what's being discussed. The issue of rape could be defined as human sexuality, but we would need to see a course outline."

A decision on whether the exclusion of boys violates sex discrimination guidelines "probably would depend on what was being presented at that one time, since that's the issue," she said.

In November, Ms. Weitzorek spoke about rape to high school students attending a state convention for members of HERO, Home Economics Related Occupations. Both boys and girls from Dist. 211 heard her program.

"Ms. Weitzorek used about the same language, very blunt," said Jenny, who attended the November convention and the presentation in March. "People appreciated her being blunt and not hinting around."

Family living teacher Sue Walton, who helped plan the program and whose students attended it, said "the idea for the meeting came out of the regional HERO meeting in November. It was a joint opinion of the department that the program was beneficial to young people." She was on of two Palatine teachers to sign the students' petition.

Principal Leonard Newendorp said home economics teachers discussed the program with him before it was approved by administrators. A parent permission slip was required for those who attended, he said.

"THE PRESENTATION was recommended for girls by one of our female teachers who had heard the program in another setting," he said. "It appeared to her to be appropriate for girls."

Ms. Walton said she assumes the decision to exclude boys from the program "came from the administrative office."

Supt. Richard Kolze said Newendorp contacted him about the rape presentation and "at his recommendation and my approval we decided it should be for girls only."

Newendorp said the decision to restrict the program to girls was made because it was though girls might be "embarrassed" by the presence of boys.

"I have trouble understanding why boys would want to hear a seminar on rape," Chapman said.

Mary Jones said some boys were interested in the program because they thought their wives or daughters might be affected someday.

"I wanted to see her (Weitzorek) because I heard she held their attention," Bruce Beal said. "Then I found out we weren't allowed to, and I wanted to picket."

The second issue concerning students is their right to petition administrators. The Dist. 211 student rights and responsibilities handbook states "the right to petition is guaranteed by the Constitution."

Petitions may not be libelous or obscene, guidelines state. The students' petition in part stated, "We feel it is important for the men of Palatine High School to be able to attend Wanda Weitzorek's presentation."

Students passed petitions around during their free periods and attempted to show them to Newendorp 10 days before the rape program was scheduled, Beal said.

"WE HAD AN appointment made for us (by Ms. Walton) for 7:15 a.m.," Holly Vogt said. "There was a mix-up and we couldn't get there, so we asked Mr. Newendorp's secretary for another appointment. She went into his office, and when she came out she said, 'The decision has already been made.' "

Newendorp, however, said he viewed the petition at the end of a school day. He said he does not know the date.

"I was on my way out of my office to a meeting outside the building. The students handed me the petition. I looked at it and understood that they wanted the presentation to be coed," Newendorp said. "The effect of what I told them was that this was established for a good reason as a non-coed activity, and that's the way it was going to be. There was no discussion of it. That was the last I saw of the petition."

Beal said students were disappointed that Newendorp did not discuss his decision with them.

"We felt he could have sat down with us and explained his reasons," he said. "We hope Mr. Newendorp will be a person, not Oz behind a curtain pulling levers to make people do things."

INTERNATIONAL WANT AD WEEK
Working Around The World

Find the "IWAW ad" next week and you could win $10

Closely read the classified pages on Monday, April 18 through Saturday, April 23 during International Want Ad Week (IWAW). Each day, Monday through Saturday, a specially identified "IWAW ad" will appear somewhere in classified.

Simply clip that ad (or make a copy of it) and attach it to the entry blank which will also appear next week in the classified section. Only one entry accepted per person from each day's paper. Each day's "IWAW ad" must be attached to a separate entry blank.

Two winners will be drawn from the correct entries from each day of International Want Ad Week. Thus, there will be 12 winners for the week. Each winner will receive $10 in cash. No one may win more than once.

All entries must be received no later than 5 p.m. on Tuesday, April 26, 1977. Mail or bring them to The Herald, IWAW Contest, 217 W. Campbell St., Arlington Heights, Ill. 60006.

Employees of the Paddock Corporation and their immediate families are not eligible.

Watch for it next week in the Want Ads!
